WANTED - HEADS FOR HATS

(Courier Photo)

WANTED—Heads to wear hats. Regatta officials are concerned about Regatta hats not being worn about town. The hats, bearing the name

Kelowna Regatta usually become conspicuous this time of year. They help promote the water show, and create a more "let's get behind it" atmosphere. The yachting style hats are in plentiful supply in stores around town. The reward, according to one official—civic pride. See story Page 3.

China-Watchers See Violence In New Policy Manoeuvres

LONDON (AP)—China-watchers expressed the view today that the Chinese government is moving into a new phase of violence and irrationalism in its foreign policy.

But these Western diplomats said they feel sure Mao Tse-tung and his followers will stop short of direct intervention in the Vietnam war.

The informants, insisting on anonymity, based their appraisal on Chinese reactions to recent incidents in India, Burma, Hong Kong, Nepal and Kenya. Those have involved diplomats, experts or overseas Chinese.

Changes in Peking's international policy appear broadly to be an unplanned byproduct of the cultural revolution, detectable in the last two months.

BECAME ISOLATED
Until then, informants said, the cultural revolution produced few variations in basic Chinese foreign policy—although it certainly worsened relations with Russia and isolated Peking from former friends.

As Western experts see it, incidents in China's neighboring territories have not occurred as result of any definite policy decision in Peking. They have arisen and been aggravated, rather because of the atmosphere generated by the cultural revolution. In most cases Peking's reactions to difficulties abroad have been nationalistic and militant.

The Chinese in the past have been less rigid, more opportunistic, than they seem to be now in their approach to African and Asian lands.

Behind all this, in the opinion of Western diplomats, lies an extremely human problem. It is that policy-makers in Peking, where Maoist passions run high, are ridden with the fear that today's decisions might become tomorrow's "rightist errors" to be denounced and punished.

Troopers Quell Anti Maoists

TOKYO (Reuters)—Chinese army paratroopers were dropped into the central China city of Wuhan Sunday to stop anti-Mao disturbances, the Japanese newspaper Sankei Shimbun says.

The newspaper's Peking correspondent says at least 10 gunboats were stationed in the Yangtze River off the city ready to back up the paratroop attack. The report says paratroops had Wuhan under control by Monday. It does not say whether there was any fighting.

China officially admitted earlier this week that army elements in the industrial city had rebelled against Maoist policies. There have been unconfirmed reports of bitter fighting between revolutionary Red Guards and army units backed by workers.

Last week, Hsieh Fu-chih, China's deputy premier and public security chief, and Wang Li, cultural revolution committee member, were reported to have been manhandled and arrested in the city by anti-Maoists.

Turkey Sends In Copter Fleet To Aid Victims Of New Quake

ANKARA (CP)—Turkey's army marshaled a fleet of helicopters today to fly supplies to victims of Turkey's second major earthquake in five days. The quake hit Wednesday night, and new tremors shuddered across the country late Thursday as the death toll mounted. Floods followed the quakes. Officials said at least 125 persons were killed when the quake Wednesday wracked the desolate eastern district of Pulumur. Many of the district's 20,000 people were killed. The quake was felt from the Black Sea on the north to the borders of Syria and Iraq on the south.

State Minister Sabit Taksin Muftoglu told Parliament: "We humbly ask Allah to protect us from further such disasters."

Premier Suleyman Demirel broke off a trip to Iran to fly to the stricken area. Scarsely settled and sandwiched between two forbidding mountain ranges, Pulumur is about 480 miles from the western Turkish city of Adana, the hardest hit by a quake which killed nearly 100 persons

WORLD NEWS IN A MINUTE

Two Killed

WHITEWOOD, Sask. (CP)—Two people travelling in a car with British Columbia licence plates, were killed in a car-truck collision on the Trans-Canada Highway, 110 miles east of Regina.

Owner Slugged
NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Two bandits slugged a hotel owner here today and escaped with $15,000 in a hit-and-run holdup. One of the men struck Steve Michalechuk, 42, over the head and grabbed a bag containing the money which was to be used to cash pay cheques.

Fires Rage
FERNIE (CP)—Two forest fires, one out of control, raged today over 1,000 acres about 50 miles northeast of here. One fire covered between 600 and 700 acres in the Fording River area, 18 miles north of Natal. The other was burning wild at the 6,000-foot level of Fording Mountain.

ARE MANY WITNESSES
Lynne A. Franz, the grand jury forewoman, said the 130 witnesses included 50 physicians, nurses and hospital laboratory technicians.

In each of the six cases, medical testimony was reported to have disclosed that hospital laboratory reports showed hypoglycemia, an abnormally low level of sugar in the blood or spinal fluid. This may be the direct result of the presence of insulin, the main function of which is to lower the level of blood sugar.

Woman's Death: Man Charged
SPENCES BRIDGE (CP)—Louis Joseph Minnabett, 58, was charged with non-capital murder Thursday in connection with the death of Mrs. Edna York, 58.

Mrs. York's beaten body was found by a neighbor in a shed behind the woman's home. RCMP said the beating apparently followed a drinking party.

Mini-Skirts Cause Mid-East Trouble
TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli military authorities banned Israeli civilians from visiting the Gaza Strip Thursday because of scuffles over mini-skirted girl shoppers. Scuffles broke out in Gaza town Wednesday because some young Arabs were molesting the short-skirted Israeli girls or getting too fresh with them, military sources said.

ACT TO CHANGE
Federal Labor Minister John Nicholson, above, today notified Gilbert McIntyre, general representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers in Sydney, N.S., that the government is considering amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act. In a telegram replying to a request by Mr. McIntyre, Mr. Nicholson said the government will consider extension of coverage to hospital workers under the act.

Docks Tie-Up Seen

MONTREAL (CP)—A countrywide shipping strike is a good possibility, a spokesman for five maritime unions said today.

The five unions represent virtually all of Canada's unionized seamen.

Gilbert Gauthier, president of the Canadian Marine Officers Union, spoke for the five unions at a press conference called after a special joint union meeting Thursday night.

The special meeting came on the heels of the federal government's decision to grant an 18-month deferment to shipping companies on introduction of the 40-hour work week.

Mr. Gauthier said that if seamen on the Great Lakes strike, then those on the east and west coasts will "refuse to run the ships."

The five unions represented at Thursday's meeting are: The 15,000-member Seafarers' International Union, representing Great Lakes seamen; the Canadian Marine Officers Union, representing marine engineers; the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, representing captains and officers; the 3,000-member Canadian Maritime Union; the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which has some locals on the west coast.

Leonard McLaughlin, SIU president, said a Great Lakes strike is "almost a commitment in the light of the federal decision."

Mystery Deaths Probed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Six persons close to William Dale Archerd, a 52-year-old hospital attendant, have died mysteriously during the last 19 years.

In each death they included those of three of his seven wives—injections of insulin was suspected, says the district attorney's office.

Archerd was arrested Thursday on three counts of suspicion of murder.

One of the two wives among the six suspicious deaths was his seventh—Mary Brinker Post Arden, author of the novel Annie Jordan which sold 1,000,000 copies.

A grand jury, which had heard 130 witnesses during the last three weeks, indicted Archerd on charges of murdering his fourth wife, Zella Winders Archerd; his 15-year-old nephew, Burney Kirk Archerd, and Mrs. Arden.

Mrs. Arden, who died last year, was sister-in-law of Manfred B. Lee, co-author of the famed Ellery Queen mystery stories. It was her death that set off the investigation, it was reported.

Accord Reached In City's Strike

Detroit's Mayor Flees Gunshots

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, on a tour of his riot-torn city, was caught in a crossfire today as police and national guardsmen attacked a sniper nest with rifles and tear gas.

The mayor escaped unhurt and apparently unperurbed from the only incident of significance during the quietest riot in U.S. history and spread terror through the city Sunday.

Thirty-nine have died, four more than perished in Watts section of Los Angeles in 1965. A Negro wounded Tuesday when he was shot by national guardsmen as he tried to run a roadblock died today.

Of the dead, 31 were Negroes. on an apartment house near the heart of the main riot section just off 12th Street on the near west side.

No one was hurt. The sniper or snipers slipped away. It was one of but four incidents to disrupt the calm of the quietest night since sacking and burning by wild Negro mobs touched off the costliest riot in U.S. history and spread terror through the city Sunday.

Unshattered street lights in the 12th Street section blinked on for the first time above the rubble.

In darkened areas soldiers smoked without need to possible sniper fire. No new fires ignited to swell the staggering total of 1,300 set since Sunday.

Governor George Romney imposed the 9 p.m. curfew to keep sightseers out of the stricken areas.

Fire Chief Charles J. Quinlan toured the riot areas and estimated property damage by fire would exceed $250,000,000. The Detroit Chamber of Commerce estimated another $500,000,000 was lost in retail business sales and workers' wages.

Hordes of rats have appeared in ruined stores and buildings. Food lines grew on the west side while the city and charitable organizations hurried to meet a growing demand.

Ten tons of canned food collected by church groups in Windsor, Ont., waited across the river for delivery.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley said live ammunition will be used if rioting breaks out. "We know this is a national program of outlawry and violence, and it could break out here."

New York — Mayor John V. Lindsay inspected the fashionable shopping area in mid-Manhattan where groups of young Negroes smashed store windows Wednesday.

Philadelphia — Mayor James H. Tate proclaimed a state of limited emergency after scattered disorders in predominantly Negro districts.

South Bend, Ind. — Negroes rioted over the wounding by police of seven Negro youths.

Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael, saying he no longer cares what happens to him when he returns to the U.S., called Thursday for Vietnam-type guerrilla wars in New York and Detroit.

In an interview with the Havana evening newspaper Juventud Rebelde, the 26-year-old Negro leader also praised Fidel Castro for standing up to the U.S.

Carmichael said: "I don't care what happens to me. It is I who choose my own friends and I who decide what my destiny is and not the American government."

Carmichael's remarks on setting up guerrilla wars in the U.S. came when he referred to former Cuban leader Ernesto

(Che) Guevara's call for the creation of several Vietnams in Latin America.

He said: "We must internationalize our struggle and if we are going to turn into reality the words of Che to create two, three and more Vietnams, we must recognize that Detroit and New York are also Vietnam."

PROPOSES UNITY
Carmichael, who accompanied Castro to Santiago de Cuba for celebrations marking the start of the Cuban revolution, said the struggles of the Latin American revolutionary and the American Negro must be co-ordinated.

He said he was impressed by "the courage of Fidel (Castro) and the Cuban people in facing the United States. It is something truly admirable."

SAIGON (CP)—U.S. marines today entered the southern half of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam to destroy artillery and mortar positions, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The North Vietnamese artillery and mortars are located south of the Ben Hai River, which serves as a physical frontier between the two Vietnams, he said.

It was the first time marines had entered the southern half of the seven-mile wide buffer strip since last May.

In the air war over North Vietnam, MIGs and U.S. Phantom jets Thursday fought a brief dogfight west of Hanoi, with the Americans claiming a probable "kill."

It was the first encounter by American and North Vietnamese fighters since July 21 when U.S. pilots claimed three MIGs and another "probable."

Both air force and navy fighter-bombers concentrated attacks again Thursday in southern North Vietnam again.

Kelowna, Electrical Workers May Be Back At Work Tuesday

The three month-old strike between 13 electrical workers and the City of Kelowna appears to be at an end.

The city has reached an agreement with a negotiating team for Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, chief city negotiator D. A. Chapman said today.

Shop steward Mike Scheer said the union has ratified the agreement.

Picketing is still in progress and Mr. Scheer said the men will probably return to work Tuesday.

Terms of the agreement are not expected to be released until union officials in Vancouver and the city council here have both signed.

The workers went on strike April 25 for higher wages and a shorter work week.

The Kelowna strike was one of three in the Interior which plagued electrical service operations.

The problems began when 223 West Kootenay Power and Light Company employees struck for higher wages and a reduction in the work week to 37½ hours from 40.

Eight electrical workers in Penticton struck about the same time as their Kelowna counterparts for a similar contract.

The West Kootenay strike was settled first, then Penticton workers returned to their jobs.

The West Kootenay employees settled for a contract which did not include a reduced work week.

During the strike in Kelowna some new services were delayed and emergency repairs were made by supervisory personnel.

NIGERIAN REVOLT

$10 Million Ransom Sought For Oil Chief

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—A 51-year-old British oil chief was held under armed guard in the Biafran capital of Enugu today with a $10,000,000 price on his head.

That is the amount in oil royalties that Biafran leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu wants from Shell-BP for the safe delivery of their managing director, Stanley Gray of London. He is being held under house arrest at Enugu's Presidential Hotel.

Gray, who was playing a vital part in managing oil negotiations, left Lagos Sunday for the Shell-BP offices in Port Harcourt, main secessionist port.

Reports reaching Lagos say Ojukwu sent word to Gray to go to Lenugu for talks.

When Gray reached his hotel in Enugu, troops surrounded it. With federal forces clounding in on Enugu, the Nigerian radio said Thursday that Ojukwu was planning to flee the country.

Federal troops also were reported advancing toward Port Harcourt after seizing the island of Bonny on the south coast.

Jim Parker, deputy British high commissioner in Enugu, has been instructed to make strong representations to Ojukwu about Gray's detention.

His seizure has increased anxiety here for 600 Britons believed to be still in Biafra.

There are an estimated 200 Americans still in Biafra along with 600 Irish and 300 British Commonwealth citizens.

Pompidou Has Visitor

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle today called in Premier Georges Pompidou and presumably the main topic was de Gaulle's interrupted trip to Canada. But the furor seemed to be rapidly dissipating.

French officials said that de Gaulle would probably make a statement to his cabinet at a regular session Monday and that portions of the statement would be made public. Then de Gaulle will consider the incident closed, the sources said.

Newspapers continued to discuss de Gaulle's call for a "free Quebec," and deplored the fact that France's image in the world was apparently tarnished. Politicians who hope to make capital about the situation apparently are reserving their biggest guns for the end of the vacation season, in September or October.

De Gaulle Satire Annoys French
LONDON (Reuters)—France protested to Britain today over a television sketch which satirized President de Gaulle and his recent visit to Canada, the French embassy announced here.

British officials said that a member of the French embassy staff drew attention to the item during a telephone conversation with a foreign office official.

The foreign office, they added was expected to take the matter up with the BBC.

Wells, dressed in a French general's uniform and made up to look like de Gaulle, poked fun at the French leader's traditional press conference style.

Sub-titles in English flashed on the screen made plain that the sketch was a particularly pointed attack on the general's controversial statements during his visit to Canada. It ended with two white-coated actors representing medical attendants dragging the "general" off the scene.

TITLE TALLY

Another of the "taller" candidates for the title of Lady-of-the-Lake, Maria Critten stands five feet, eight and one-half inches. She is 17 years of age. Maria is this year's Miss Rotary and attends Grade 12 at the Kelowna Secondary School. She has brown eyes and dark brown hair. Her hobbies include water and snow skiing, and teaching swimming and reading. Her future plans are varied and include a career in archeology or "possibly interior or fashion design." Maria plans to attend university. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Critten of Westbank.

Dief Sends In Stiff Protest On Ontario 'Interference'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker has sent a stiff protest letter to the party's Ontario association over alleged interference in last November's national party convention.

Over Mr. Diefenbaker's objections, the November meeting authorized a leadership convention, later set for Sept. 6-9 in Toronto.

The letter went sometime last spring to Elmer Bell of Exeter, Ont., president of the Ontario association. A copy was sent to Premier John Robarts of Ontario.

Informants say the hard-line letter has been a topic of conversation in inner party circles since it was sent. Mr. Bell, who favored the leadership review at the convention, did not reply.

Precise contents of the letter are not known. It is understood to be a lengthy indictment of the activities of some of the Ontario party people at the tumultuous convention.

Mr. Diefenbaker is said to have complained sharply about unfair interference.

Some Conservatives say the letter was a factor in the Ontario government's decision to delay the forecast spring provincial election.

Those who advance this theory say there was no guarantee the letter would be kept secret. If it became public, it raised the possibility of alienating many pro-Diefenbaker Conservatives in the province.

The letter was personally critical of the activities of Mr. Bell, a former supporter of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Some also see the letter and the dispute surrounding it as further evidence of a power struggle between the Ontario and federal party headquarters.

Huge British Steel Industry Now Comes Under One Roof

LONDON (Reuters)—About 90 per cent of Britain's steel industry came under state control today to form one of the world's largest single industrial units.

Thirteen of the country's largest iron and steel companies passed from private into public hands for the second time in 16 years. A 4th already is state-run.

But the new management, the national Steel Corp., is not taking over a healthy business—even though the companies involved have an annual production capacity of 29,000,000 tons of common steel, employ about 220,000 persons and boast an estimated annual turnover of between £900,000,000 ($2,700,000,000,000).

Economists believe the smaller companies, which remain in private hands and process rather than produce steel, will show a profit over the next few years while the public sector will not.

Nationalization of steel has long been one of the ruling Labor party's ideological dreams.

Prime Minister Wilson refused to budge from the plan despite bitter criticism from industry and the opposition Conservative party.

The Conservatives, returning to power in 1951, took immediate steps to abandon steel nationalization introduced by the Labor administration.

Wilson's government is determined to make a success of state-run steel. It has accused the privately owned industry of slow expansion, a poor export record, relatively high prices and inadequate research.

The government has quietly bought steel shares on the private market for more than a month. It is not known how much stock was acquired but the former owners were expected to receive about £480,000,000 ($1,440,000,000) compensation.

The head of the new National Steel Corp. is Conservative aristocrat Lord Melchett, a 42-year-old former London banker and grandson of the founder of the giant Imperial Chemical Industries group.

Army Experts Studying 'Bomb' Located In Montreal Suburb

MONTREAL (CP)—Army experts and police today were investigating the circumstances behind a so-called bomb found in the town hall of suburban Greenfield Park Thursday.

The bomb contained no "active" explosives, an army demolition spokesman said.

It was found following a telephone call warning that a bomb was set to go off in the town hall and another was in a mailbox.

Warnings were broadcast by radio stations to keep residents away from the 15 boxes in the town, and a detailed search uncovered no bombs in any.

The army took no chances with the package found in a flight bag in the town hall. It was carefully removed to an open area and exploded.

The army spokesman said regulations forbid experts from unwrapping suspected bombs.

However, when the package was exploded the intensity of the blast indicated there had been no active explosives in the flight bag. It was at first believed to have contained a battery, clock and some sticks of dynamite.

The warning phone caller told officials he was a member of le Front de liberation du Quebec, similar to the name of a terrorist group active in the Montreal area in 1963 and called le Front de liberation Quebecois.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange industrial index reached a 1967 high in active morning trading today as all major sections of the market advanced.

The industrial index rose 10 to 109.02 for the second day of gains after a slump during the first three days of the week.

IMC advanced 2 1/4 to 41, Levy Industries 3/4 to 25 1/2, CPR 3/4 to 7 1/4 and Bank of Montreal 1/4 to 12 1/4.

PCE Explorations gained 2 to 1.80 on 79,800 shares. The stock rose 41 cents to 1.78 Thursday on 1,080,118 shares. Trading in PCE was delayed for an hour today pending release of information by the company. A company statement issued today said that encouraging results had been received from drilling operations in the Coppermine River area of the Northwest Territories.

Among other mining issues, New Imperial rose 15 cents to 3.80 after being delayed at the opening to match buy and sell orders. Kerr-Addison, a gold issue, rose 1/4 to 15.

In western oils, Seaway-Rainbow moved up 1/4 to 45 1/2, and Place Gas 15 cents to 2.85. Central-Del Rio lost 3/4 to 19 1/4 and Great Plains 1/4 to 16 1/4.

On index, golds gained 1.12 to 172.10, base metals .13 to 100.94 and western oils .37 to 198.72. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,033,000 shares compared with 879,000 at the same time Thursday.

Strike In B.C. Interior Could Be Lengthy

Motorists Face Contest Costs

Parity With Coast Demand Exorbitant, Says Simpson

The cost of "give away propositions," offered by most major oil companies today, will eventually have to be shifted to the motorist.

Pete Ratel, representing Kelowna area garage and service station operators at the monthly meeting of the B.C. Automotive Retailers' Association in Vancouver Wednesday, said these costs are now being absorbed by the operators.

"Many of the contests using cards are costing the operator one cent a card, a loss of about $300 during the summer," Mr. Ratel said.

Other contests planned will cost the operator another one and a half or two cents a gallon, which would require approximately a 20 per cent increase in business for him to break even.

Mr. Ratel said the association also protested oil companies "literally forcing" service stations to participate.

"An advertisement says drive in to any station. Imagine the response from your customers when they ask you for a card and you tell them you aren't participating."

"Some service station operators must agree to participating in any contest sponsored by the oil company when they sign their lease," Mr. Ratel said.

"Oil company executives have got themselves on a treadmill and must decide whether to stay or get off."

Oil companies now receive less profit per gallon than they did six years ago. Therefore, they cannot continue to absorb the cost of these gimmicks indefinitely.

"The consumer will eventually have to pay."

The head of the negotiating committee for the Southern Interior Lumber Operators' Association said today the group is determined to retain wage differences between the B.C. Interior and the Coast woodworker industries.

"If the woodworkers force a strike on their issue of parity, it will be a long strike," said Horace Simpson of Kelowna.

He outlined the operators' stand as the members of the International Woodworkers of America prepared to take a strike vote to back up wage demands.

The Interior IWA has demanded wage parity with woodworkers at the B.C. Coast. This would mean a 50 cent hourly increase from the present base rate of $2.26 to the Coast base rate of $2.76 per hour.

"This exorbitant demand is unjustified in view of differences that exist between forest industry operators in the Interior and at the Coast," Mr. Simpson said.

"And there is a difference. Don't let the union fool anyone on that. By far the major portion of the Coast woodworker industry is either directly or closely associated with larger, basic integrated operations which, as part of their total operations, are involved in the manufacture of lumber and plywood."

"No such integrated complexes exist in the southern Interior. Only four mills produce both lumber and plywood, and

Music, Noise, Excitement Regatta Week Will Be Hectic

A full calendar of events has been lined up for Regatta Week, beginning Aug. 5 and ending Aug. 13.

The list, released Thursday, begins with a hockey spectacular at the Memorial Arena, featuring Bobbie Hull, Eddie Shack, Bill Hay, Guyle Fielder and Arnie Schmutz and other top ranking stars from the national and western hockey leagues. The time is 8 p.m., Saturday.

Sunday is the 100-mile water ski marathon, with skiers leaving Kelowna at 8 a.m., proceeding to Vernon and returning to finish at the Kelowna Aquatic at about 1 p.m. The skiers are expected to pass under the Okanagan Lake bridge at about 9:30 a.m.

A centennial ball will be held Tuesday at 9 p.m. in the Kelowna Armory with Mart Kenney and his orchestra providing the music. Dress is informal.

Wednesday is the first of the four days of the Regatta. The big event is the parade down Bernard Avenue to the City Park Oval, starting at 6 p.m.

At 8 p.m. there is an open water demonstration of submarine tracking by the Royal Canadian Navy tracker aircraft. The demonstration will be followed by a water ski exhibition.

Eddie Cole and his troupe of professional divers will do clown and exhibition diving.

Wednesday is the opening day of the Kinsmen midway and the carnival in the City Park. The first day is children's day. Champion ship synchronized swimming events will be held in the pool and also the Canadian Northwest Diving championships. There will be free entertainment in the Jubilee Bowl in the park.

Thursday night's entertainment in Ogopogo Stadium begins at 8 p.m. with a demonstration of precision flying and aerobatic maneuvers in aircraft from the First World War and today's jets.

Rickie Mann and his accordion will perform on stage. Al McDonald and Howe, a unicycle act, Jan Wood and her group of young swimmers will do a water ballet and paddleboard numbers in the pool. The clown and exhibition diving will continue.

The Canadian Northwest Swimming Championships start Thursday, also a professional diving exhibition.

Earl Grant, organist and pianist, will be featured in Aquatic at 8 p.m. in Ogopogo Stadium. The artist will have a 12-piece orchestra accompanying him. The submarine tracking will be repeated, also the clown and exhibition diving, the water ballet and paddle numbers. There will be an illuminating firework display by the Kelowna Yacht Club.

The championship swimming and diving continue Friday. Free entertainment is scheduled for the Jubilee Bowl. Rowing races will be held by junior crews in open water.

Saturday night's entertainment begins at 8 p.m. with Aquatic Rhythms of 1967, featuring Mr. Grant in another concert of musical hits. The submarine tracking, water ballet, clown and professional diving, will all be repeated. The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Lady of the Lake, followed by a wind-up dance in the Memorial Arena.

Swimming and diving events continue. The sanctioned power boat races will be held Saturday with seven classes of entries from the Pacific Northwest racing centers of Canada and the U.S.

Impaired Driving Charges Dominate Court's Docket

An Edmonton man was fined $350 in magistrate's court today on an impaired driving charge.

Peter Rebus did not appear, but entered his guilty plea through Kelowna lawyer, R. A. Gies.

The prosecutor said Rebus was involved in an accident at Ellis Street and Doyle Avenue, June 24 at 7:55 p.m. Mr. Gies said his client admitted having two beers and two glasses of beer earlier in Penticon. He asked that the man be allowed to retain his licence, as he needed it for his work. The magistrate said he would reserve decision until Monday on the licence.

Edward Ewer of Kelowna, appeared for decision, following a trial July 19 on an impaired driving charge. He was convicted and fined $250 and placed on probation for three months on a $500 recognizance. During the three months he may drive during working hours only.

Paul John Renaud, Kelowna, changed his plea to not guilty on a charge of driving without due care and attention and the case was adjourned to Aug. 7. Bail was set at $150.

New School Contract Let

A contract for the construction of a four-room, primary, open plan school has been awarded Busch Construction Co. of Kelowna, by the trustees of School District 23 (Kelowna).

The school will be built on a site on the Glenmore Central's ground.

Other bids were received from Gustavus Construction in Vernon and Douillard Construction in Kelowna.

An acre of land in the Boucherie area, owned by the school board, is being put up for sale. Public tenders will be asked on the land which, because of its location, is not useful to the board.

A bid of $9,650 to construct an electric generator in the east block of the Kelowna Secondary School was accepted.

The bid was received from Interior Industrial Electric.

Cooler . . .

Cooler temperatures are forecast for the Okanagan Saturday. Light winds and sunny skies are forecast today, while increasing cloud Saturday should leave skies overcast by evening.

The high in Kelowna Thursday hit 91, while the overnight low was 55. The high and low on the same day a year ago was 85 and 54.

The low tonight and high Saturday at Penticon and Kamloops 55 and 85.

Clifford Hower Condition Poor

Word has been received in Kelowna of a serious illness of a Vancouver businessman who is well known here.

Clifford Hower of West Vancouver suffered a serious heart attack Tuesday. He is confined to the Lions Gate Hospital, where his condition is listed as "poor."

Mr. Hower, who has many investment clients in the Okanagan, planned to open an office in Kelowna for a Vancouver firm about mid-August.

NOT TOO CONCERNED about the comments of President de Gaulle are four students visiting in Kelowna from Quebec. They are here on a student exchange program sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews. Four Kelowna secondary school students spent two weeks in the home of French-Canadian families in Montreal and returned this week with the French students. The Kelowna students, back row, left to right, Brenda Wemp, Linda Turri, Lorill Taylor and Barbara Robson. Front row: Francine Guilford, Francine Sauriol, Carole Fortin and Louise Racine, all from Montreal and vicinity. See story left.

'TOP VISITORS' RECEIVE FRUIT

Chosen as this week's Visitors of the Week are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Maveety of Edmonton and their two children, Gail, 7, and Mark, 8. Mayor R. F. Parkinson is shown presenting the family with a basket of Okanagan fruit. Each week the Visitor and Convention Bureau of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce chooses a family to be honored. The Maveety's have been coming to Kelowna for five years. An insurance man, he is also a keen golfer.

Some Late Snags Hit Regatta Plans

Plans are progressing nicely for Kelowna's 61st International Regatta, with the exception of a few jarring notes.

The City of Kelowna apparently does not intend to enter a float in the parade and will have the Lady-of-the-Lake ride in a stage coach from the Museum.

The parks and recreation committee has broken its "sacred" agreement with the Regatta association and rented the Aquatic to a dance group for the Wednesday night of the Regatta.

And the commission has suddenly informed the association it may be impossible to remove the ice from the arena for the Saturday night, wind-up dance.

Murray Joyce, chairman of the Regatta, says there are fewer Regatta hats being worn on city streets this year than ever before.

These jarring notes to an otherwise well-organized program, were disclosed at a general meeting of the Kelowna International Regatta Association Thursday.

Police Check Hippie Throw

Police were called at 1:10 a.m. today to investigate an incident in the City Park involving 12 "hippies" and two district youths.

One of the local youths is supposed to have attempted to throw a hippie into Okanagan Lake, but the throw fell short and the hippie landed on some rocks. He was taken to the Kelowna General Hospital by ambulance, but was later released.

Police stopped two Winfield youths in Penticon later for questioning in connection with the incident.

The hippies were told to come to the police station to give a complete report of the incident to police but they did not show up. They told police earlier they were unhappy with Kelowna and were planning to leave.

"We didn't beg them to remain," one constable said.

national Regatta Association Thursday.

"This is disgraceful, terrible," was L. N. Leathley's comment on the city's apparent disinterest in a float.

"Is it too late to ask the city to do something, to put them on the spot?" Doug Haworth said.

The members unanimously passed a motion to inform the city the association is not satisfied with the position the city has taken on the float, the lack of representation in the Penticon Peach Festival and the Regatta parade.

A suggestion was made the Lady-of-the-Lake ride on the Tean Town float, but others felt she should be separated from the contestants and ride perhaps in a sail boat or power boat.

Mr. Joyce said he tentatively booked the arena for Aug. 12 a month ago and learned today officials could not replace the ice in time for a bonspiel if it was removed for the dance.

One member said perhaps the fault lay with the Regatta association for not booking firmly.

Mr. Joyce said he felt the parks and recreation commission should have contacted him.

"They have violated a sacred document not to contract the arena, community theatre or

Wrong Story On Boniface

A story in Thursday's Courier, which said an escapee from a Lower Mainland correction institute was captured in Kelowna was not correct.

David Boniface, 17, gave himself up to police in Kelowna and was not "picked up" or "captured" as the story implied.

He escaped from the New Haven correction institute in Burnaby, not the Haney Correctional Institute for Boys, as the story said.

The youth's mother said today her son realized he had made a mistake and he gave himself up to the RCMP shortly after returning home.

Aquatic building during the Regatta without first checking with us," Mr. Joyce said.

"I give you my personal assurance this is not a dead issue."

The Regatta chairman said he has three things to settle with the parks and recreation commission: that the Wednesday night engagement of the Aquatic to a dance group be cancelled; that the arena question of ice on the floor for Saturday's dance be settled; and if the ice must remain that an outdoor dance be considered.

The members agreed the chairman should approach the parks and recreation committee and reiterate that the agreement be adhered to. The chairman had asked that a motion of censure be considered for the commission's actions in letting facilities during Regatta week.

Roger Tait, in charge of recording and judging of pool events, said there is a need for volunteer timers and judges, especially for the swimming races. Anyone wishing to volunteer their services should contact him on the regatta office on Mill Street.

Teen Town members were commended for their efforts in organizing dances, a competitors beach party and in arranging accommodations.

The beach party will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the D. A. Chapman property and this year the young band members from Regina and Bellingham may be included.

Mr. Joyce asked members to urge everyone to buy and wear Regatta hats. He said in Calgary the morning of the parade, 90 per cent of the people wore stoneware, a symbol of their acceptance of the stampede.

Motorcycle gangs may visit Kelowna during the Regatta, members were told. A rumor is circulating a California gang is "casing the town."

"If they come I am sure the RCMP will escort them right through the town as they did last year to other groups," Mr. Joyce said.

The Quebec choir, Vln L/Bon Vent, which will appear in Vernon Aug. 10, may make an appearance here one night of the Regatta, if arrangements can be made in the City Park.

Lorill was conscious of a strong feeling of nationalism among the people she met. "The French families told me English-speaking people go to Quebec and demand the people speak English to them. The French resent this and I'm with them."

Brenda was impressed with the difference in the appearance of the French people. She found them of a smaller build and a darker complexion.

Asked to comment on Kelowna, Francine said "C'est beau." She found young people were different, more formal in their relationships with each other and parents more strict.

Police Arrest Two Juveniles

Two juveniles were taken into custody early today after police chased suspects following a break-in at the Dairy Queen, 681 Bernard Ave., at 1:40 a.m.

The boys were picked up in an alley behind the United Church, 721 Bernard Ave. The breaking, entering and theft was observed by police on patrol.

An attempted break-in of the William Arnott Jewelry store, 453 Bernard Ave., was reported to police at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The staff found a door handle partly dismantled. No entry was gained.

A 1965 Fiat convertible car was reported stolen from the Safeway parking lot, Thursday at 5 p.m. Mrs. H. Held, RR3, Hall Road, told police the keys were in the car. The vehicle is white with a red and black interior.

Creative Dance Heads For City

Creative dance is coming to Kelowna.

The Hanova Modern Dance Group of Vancouver, and more recently the Okanagan School of Fine Arts in Penticon, will present a creative dance concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the St. David's Presbyterian Church.

Concert leaders, Gertrud and Magda Hanova, have given performances in London, Central Europe, India and Canada.

The Czechoslovakian-born sisters now own a dance studio in Vancouver.

The concert will consist basically of what the sisters teach at their Vancouver studio like creative dance, yoga and exercises incorporating the beneficial principles of yoga and group movements for co-ordination

GIRL HURT

An unidentified three-year-old girl was taken to the Kelowna General Hospital Thursday at 7:10 p.m., after being struck by a car on Richter Street. No further details were available.

FRENCH STUDENTS PREDICT

Separated Quebec Will Come

By TERRY UTLEY
Courier Staff Writer

French students visiting here for two weeks think this is a wonderful place to spend a holiday because "there's time to live here."

They aren't so sure they'd like that slow pace on a permanent basis.

They think Kelowna parents are more strict than their Montreal counterparts and they agree that may be a good thing.

The students think English-speaking people here are more friendly than those in the east who never mix with us.

Asked to comment on Gen. de Gaulle's comments in Montreal one said, "C'est pas gentil. It isn't nice."

They thought too much fuss had been made over the French to deserve the VIP treatment. In Kelowna, he is nothing for us.

The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews. Five Kelowna students spent two weeks in the home of a French Canadian family in the east and returned to Kelowna Tuesday with their young French host or hostess, who will spend two weeks with a Kelowna family.

The Kelowna students are Linda Turri, 17, of 535 Clement Ave.; Lorill Taylor, 16, of 1668 Gillard Drive; Brenda Wemp, 17, RR 4, Kelowna; Barbara Robson of 1848 Highland Dr., and Neil Peters.

The French students are Francine Sauriol, Carole Fortin, Louise Racine and Brenda Wemp. A fifth boy is visiting with the Peters but both boys are in Vancouver this week.

Linda found Montreal "fabulous" and the kindness of the French people she met made a big impression on her.

The size of Montreal just bowled her over, said Barbara. "The pace is so fast." She found the language barrier the worst. "I felt I was in another country," she said. Lorill thought people were friendlier in Montreal than they are in Vancouver. The students found people came up and spoke to them when they saw they were visitors from the west.

Lorill was conscious of a strong feeling of nationalism among the people she met. "The French families told me English-speaking people go to Quebec and demand the people speak English to them. The French resent this and I'm with them."

Brenda was impressed with the difference in the appearance of the French people. She found them of a smaller build and a darker complexion.

Asked to comment on Kelowna, Francine said "C'est beau." She found young people were different, more formal in their relationships with each other and parents more strict.

Carole thought Kelowna was ideally situated, beside a beautiful lake and a snow mountain. Francine thinks people here, come eat more moderately compared to the food-laden tables in Quebec where, she says, they overeat.

She says if she feels like visiting her friends in Quebec she would do so without ever thinking of telephoning first to find if it is convenient. She is impressed that this is done by young people here.

Kelowna has been taking part in the student exchange program for four years and never before has the talk of separatism been so prominent in the comments of both the English and French-speaking students.

"Quebec will separate, but it will take a long time," one French student said. Another French student argued with her and asked if she thought Quebec could manage alone.

"We will end up Americans and I would rather be a Canadian than an American," she said.

They all agreed Quebec would gain nothing by separating but said it was a matter of time before it would happen.

All Dangerous Crossings Should Be Eliminated.

Every year with unfailing regularity the annual report of the board of transport commissioners gives the grim score of level crossing accidents. Its report for 1966 says there were 478 of these accidents involving death and injury in Canada, which is well over eight a week.

It is astonishing that year after year the total of these accidents can be accepted with equanimity by authorities and public alike. There are, of course, many pious protestations and perhaps an equal number of suggestions on what to do to make these crossings safer, or remove them altogether.

Final decision is never reached to tackle the whole thing on a nationwide basis for the simple reason that the only way to be absolutely safe would be to build overpasses at every crossing. And that would cost the at present unthinkable sum of about $14 billion.

In the meantime there is a grade crossing fund administered under the railway act. There is $5 million in this fund.

There are about 30,000 level crossings in Canada. Slightly more than one in 10 have flashers and bells; some 200 have wigwags or gates and about another 200 are protected by train crewmen who use flags. For the rest—over 26,000—there are signs. These are what are called "unprotected" crossings.

The cost of flashers and gates for one crossing is about $35,000. Of this the railway pays 7½ per cent, the local civil authority 12½ per cent and the remaining 80 per cent comes from the rail crossing fund.

from the rail crossing fund.

A tragedy such as the one at Dorion last October in which a bus loaded with teenagers was involved in a level crossing accident with a fast freight train with 20 lives lost brings into sharp focus the dangers. A few months earlier a similar accident involving a school bus happened near Edson, Alberta.

The number of cars on highways is increasing. At the same time, freight and passenger trains are travelling faster than they have travelled in the past. Both trends will develop further.

Although accidents at level crossings have declined since 1956, there is no guarantee that they will continue to do so. The public is obviously exposed to a danger that even the utmost caution cannot always avoid.

The Ottawa government should take the lead in organizing a nationwide plan to have all level crossings protected in the next few years. Municipalities and cities should not be allowed to plead economy where human lives are at stake.

Too often in the past it has needed one or more fatal accidents at a particular level crossing to make a council move. Crossings in cities and towns are usually protected. It is those in rural areas that are the most dangerous.

It should not be beyond the combined planning powers of the federal, provincial and local governments to devise a scheme that, step by step, will protect all crossings in the country and so eliminate a danger that has been with us far too long.

Rescind Section 203

(Penticton Herald)

Starting August 1 the entire lower mainland area from Squamish to Hope becomes a drinking driver test case area with the introduction and enforcement of Section 203 of the Motor Vehicle Act.

Section 203 provides that a policeman may require the driver of an automobile to surrender his driver's licence if the policeman has reason to believe the driver has consumed enough alcohol to provide a reading of .08 per cent on the breathalyzer.

We have previously stated our objections to having a police constable placed in the position of being judge and jury and say again that a man is innocent until proven guilty. Any infringement of this basis for the preservation of law should be contested to the fullest extent by all concerned citizens.

Contrary arguments, that opposition to Section 203 is a means of endorsement of drinking drivers, are without foundation. This newspaper has consistently devoted editorial comment in support of highway safety in all its facets. Support by the public for the law enforcement officers whose job it is to maintain order on the highways has also been unstinting.

But the widespread public appeal which can be aroused in the battle against the drinking driver is being abused by the authorities who have planned this new legislation, and the eventual consequence could be far worse—in a social sense—than any crime committed by the borderline drinker.

The removal of a citizen's right to a trial in a public court is the removal of a cornerstone of our entire system. Once Section 203 has been used effectively for a period of time and has been accepted as a way of life there could well be other similar infringements introduced until the system of justice, as we know it today, will have been completely changed.

A wrong is wrong and all the popular appeals in the name of efficiency and safety do not justify Section 203. The current laws on the statute books should be capable of controlling the errant driver on the highway and they should be more rigidly enforced if such need exists.

Furthermore, what if the apprehended driver insists on taking a breathalyzer test which shows his degree of impairment at .07 per cent, .01 below the Section 203 instruction? Does the police officer then say to the driver to be on his way and that the whole thing has been an unfortunate mistake? Or does the constable flip through his Motor Vehicle Act memory and lay a charge under another section to forever endear himself, and all other policemen, for "getting" his man one way or another?

Section 203 should be rescinded.

This Pointed Beak Beast Not From Prehistoric Age

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Like a great pointed-beak beast from some dim prehistoric era, the block-long SST mockup site in the cavernous Boeing Development Centre, wings folded and spraddled on 18 huge rubber-tired feet. From it, it is hoped, will evolve the first generation of United States faster-than-sound commercial airliners, 300-foot gliders in which 300 passengers will travel at 65,000 feet and 1,800 miles an hour. The planes, made of titanium, with a movable wing and needle nose, will weigh 337 tons.

The SST, providing speed nearly three times that of sound, will revolutionize air travel in the near decade.

When a U.S. SST starts commercial service late in 1974—the slower, smaller British-French Concorde and Russian TU-144 supersonics probably will have been flying several years—the major cities of the world will be at a passenger's doorstep.

New York to London or New York to Paris in two hours, 40 minutes; San Francisco to Honolulu, two hours; Honolulu to Tokyo, 2:55.

COSTLY PROJECT

For construction of two SST prototypes under a $1,400,000,000 U.S. government-subsidized program, Boeing will spend up to $200,000,000 of its own funds. Already the design phase of the SST competition, using 1,500 of the company's top engineers, scientists and technicians, has cost Boeing $40,000,000.

The SST award to Boeing at the end of 1966 after intense competition with the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. culminated one of the biggest business struggles in history.

Boeing won principally for its pivoting wing that has a conventional position for takeoffs and landings, and tucks back to an angle of 72 degrees for supersonic flight. Lockheed's design featured a fixed double-delta wing.

The SST represents a gross sales potential of about $45,000,000,000 based on Boeing estimates of a 1,100-plane market by 1990 at a cost of $40,000,000 each. Already U.S. and foreign airlines have ordered 113. The SST, though, has rough air ahead.

CRITICS ARE VOCAL

Critics are becoming more vocal. Some describe the SST as an eardrum-shattering, budget-wrecking disaster.

Sonic boom, the explosive crack heard and felt on the ground when a plane breaks the sound barrier, is at the core of the opposition to the SST.

H. W. Withington, vice-president in charge of the SST program, says despite intensive research there has been no really significant progress in solving the sonic boom problem.

Many Trades For This Farmer

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—Ingolf Gelsvik, a retired Peace River farmer, runs an adoption agency and a telephone answering service and is inspector of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in this small Vancouver Island town.

This affable, gentle man has to destroy an average of 40 unwanted dogs every month. The law only allows him to keep impounded dogs for 72 hours but he says: "I don't put animals down unless I have to."

The three jobs are related. Mr. Gelsvik is kept busy looking for homes on Vancouver Island for the animals.

Mrs. Gelsvik, who is paid $95 a month for answering the phone, says she feels guilty if she leaves the house for five minutes, in case she misses finding a home for one of their charges.

It's always full house at the animal shelter. Twenty-four dogs are always waiting a canine cacophony. But the Gelsviks feel happy when they can find one of their dogs a home.

They Fight Again On Smaller Scale

FREDERICTON (CP)—Twice a month five Fredericton men relive battles fought more than 200 years ago.

The men are members of the Military Miniature Club and the battles are fought with the aid of dice and scale models.

A games table in the home of club founder Maj. Gordon Fisher is the battlefield.

Maj. Fisher and Peter Toner formed the club last fall. Club members spend hours researching battles and Mr. Toner moulds most of the models from lead and then paints them.

Maps are used to lay out the battle scene but players decide the positioning of troops.

The Fredericton club is particularly interested in the Napoleonic wars but is also working on "armies" designed to recreate the battles between the Highlanders and the English in the 18th century.

A post-graduate history student at the University of New Brunswick, Mr. Toner does most of the research.

LETTER TO EDITOR

THANKS, CITY!

Sir:

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to your office for a traffic ticket for overparking.

On Monday morning my husband and myself parked on Lawrence Avenue while visiting the office of a doctor. We were delayed there and when I returned to the car a young man on a motorcycle was writing a traffic ticket for overparking.

When I explained the circumstances he cancelled the ticket. The courtesy of this young man gave me a warm feeling for Kelowna. We were impressed with the friendliness and courtesy we received everywhere we went. We now understand why Kelowna enjoys such a tremendous success as a shopping and recreation area.

Sincerely,
MRS. I. GOWAN,
Enderby.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Several Reasons For Ear Trouble

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

About two years ago I began having trouble hearing. I had several examinations and was told I should get a hearing aid.

However, I noted that every time I "popped" my ears by holding my nose and blowing hard, I could hear fine. I talked to several doctors but only one said he might recommend surgery, but he wants to make another examination first. What do you think?—A.H.

There are different causes of hearing loss. One is damage to, or degeneration of the auditory nerves, and since these must carry all sound impulses to the brain, there is little we can do for such a case except provide louder sounds to start with—hence hearing aids.

But sound can be retarded in other ways. Sometimes a person has a "wax formation," and excessive wax, instead of working gradually out of the ears, can become impacted. This wax, if it forms into a hard mass, can interfere with sound reaching the eardrum.

Or there may be faults in transmission of the sound waves from the eardrum to the inner ear. The sound is conducted by a linkage of tiny bones. If infection or injury prevents these from moving freely, sound is not carried as efficiently as it should be. For this, certain surgical techniques have been devised and in suitable cases are remarkably successful.

Still another cause of hearing impairment exists. There is a tiny canal, the Eustachian tube, in each ear, leading from inside the ear drum to the throat. The purpose is to keep the air pressure approximately equal on each side of the ear drum.

Why? Well, take a drum. If you pumped up the air pressure inside the drum, the drum head would not vibrate freely, hence would not give us as strong a sound.

If the Eustachian tubes are clogged, pressure building up against the eardrum can limit its vibrations, and hence the sound, and thus impair your hearing. A long, rapid drop in an elevator, or in an unpressurized airplane, can "make your ears clog up." What is happening is that it takes a little time for the tiny tubes to equalize the pressure. A cold in the head, and its inflammation can interfere.

Examining and treating these tiny tubes is a highly specialized task, and I am not in the least surprised that you have encountered several physicians who declined to tackle it.

I would, by all means, return to the specialist who thinks he may be able to help. He wishes (as his insistence on a further examination implies) to be reasonably sure that he can do some good. If some past infection has scarred these tubes, there may be a question whether surgery will open them up without creating new scar tissue. That is doubtless what he now hopes to determine.

But because there are so many totally different causes of loss of hearing, it is always wise to consult an ear specialist and not jump too quickly to the assumption that a hearing aid is the answer.

There are vast numbers of cases of nerve impairment, and for them a hearing aid is the answer. But when one of the other causes is basic, it is better, obviously, to repair the fault instead of merely bombarding the ear structure with louder sound.

Dear Dr. Molner: Has it ever been proved that the benefit of drinking whole milk overbalances the use of skim milk?—E.J.H.

The essential difference is that skim milk has had much of the fat removed. Other nutrients remain the same.

Note to M.H.L.: Histoplasmosis is an infection caused by a certain type of fungus rather than bacteria, viruses or other types of microorganisms. The spore can lurk in dirt and dust.

Criminals Ugly, There's No Doubt

LONDON (Reuters)—Criminals do have ugly faces, two American plastic surgeons report after a scientific survey.

Dr. F. W. Masters and Dr. D. C. Greaves, writing in the British Journal of Plastic Surgery, say they studied police records in Kansas City, Miami, St. Louis, Baltimore and Los Angeles.

They said most men criminals had protruding ears and receding chins while odd-shaped noses and acne scars predominated among the women.

July 28, 1967 . . .

Austria declared war on Serbia 53 years ago today—in 1914—and Europe was in a state of general war within days. The Austro-Hungarian empire feared the revival of Serbia as a Balkan power, since many of its subjects were Slavs, as the Serbs were, and resented foreign rule. Serbia was backed by Russia, a traditional protector of the small Slav states, and Germany backed Austria. France declared war on Germany, forestalling a planned German attack.

1790—North-Clyde canal across Scotland was opened.

1917—Formation of British Tank Corps authorized.

First World War
Fifty years ago today—in 1917—German troops occupied Kutny in the Carpathians and reached the Russian frontier on both sides of Husiatyn; in aerial battles over the Western Front 31 German planes were shot down; 16 British planes were lost.

Second World War
Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—German troops drove into the north Caucasus, crossing the lower Don River south of Tsimlyansk and elsewhere; RAF planes made a large-scale attack on Hamburg; Japanese in New Guinea advanced to within 60 miles of Port Moresby.

CANADA'S STORY

Macdonald Defeated When Ottawa Chosen

By BOB BOWMAN

Political instability was a factor that led to Confederation in 1867. Between 1854 and 1864 there were 10 governments in the Canada of those days. A federation of the British North American provinces seemed to be the only way to break the political deadlock, and planning began in 1864.

John A. Macdonald bore the brunt of the upsets between 1854 and 1864 and always managed to get back into power thanks to his trusty colleague Georges Etienne Cartier, the leader of French Canada. Cartier was greatly respected in Quebec because he had been appointed solicitor to the Grand Trunk Railway, and French speaking Canadians did not get many executive plums in those days.

Cartier had been a rebel in the 1837 rebellion and wrote a marching song "Avant tout je suis Canadien" meaning "above all, I am a Canadian." He had to flee from Canada before the rebellion ended but was exonerated later.

The Macdonald-Cartier government was defeated on July 28, 1858, on one of the few occasions when Cartier was not able to control his French-speaking colleagues. Quebec had been chosen as the capital of Canada in 1858, but the Legislative Council would not accept the appropriation to build parliament there. John A. Macdonald then asked Queen Victoria to choose a location for the capital, and she bestowed nearly everyone by naming Ottawa, then described as a "sub-Arctic lumber village."

George Brown saw an opportunity to overthrow the government. He introduced a motion that "the City of Ottawa ought not to be the permanent seat of government of this Province." As he expected a large number of French-speaking members deserted Cartier and the government was defeated 64-50. Brown and Antoine Dorion then formed a government but it lasted only four days when Macdonald and Cartier managed to get back into power by playing a political trick known in Canadian history as "the double shuffle."

Newspaper Guild Fires Away In Turn At CIA And Itself

OTTAWA (CP) — American Newspaper Guild delegates alternately blasted the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and each other Thursday night before voting to seek a link with a U.S. government agency.

The key vote carried by 263-59 to 134-49.

The exchanges at the guild's 34th annual convention took just over an hour but the volume and heat generated exceeded anything up to that point in the week-long convention, which ends today.

The guild represents some 35,000 news media employees in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico.

CIA SUPPORTED

It was reported six months ago to have been accepting aid for its international affairs program from foundations which were supported by the CIA.

The guild investigated the foundations, found explanations unsatisfactory and severed its link with them.

Thursday night more than 200 ANG delegates were asked to authorize their officers seeking new fund sources for the international program, particularly from the Agency for International Development.

The proposal touched off an uproar.

Vilification of the U.S. government and the state department reached a point that David Schick of Philadelphia compared with scenes at the UN when Communist nations are "tackling the United States."

Debate centred on a minority committee report recommending that no government funds be used for the international program.

Irvin Kreisman, Madison, said first reports of the alleged CIA-guild link "burst like a bomb." Many guildsmen "had a feeling that we'd been had." He advocated dropping the program unless funds can be found from private sources.

J. V. Reistrup of the Washington-Baltimore Newspaper Guild said the real issue "is whether the American Newspaper Guild is to be an arm of the foreign policy of the United States."

He said the Agency for International Development's function is to carry out the foreign policy of the U.S. Mr. Reistrup was one of many delegates who praised the guild's aid program in Latin America and stressed the need for such work.

He said the guild's resolutions committee was told this week by the men who ran the original program — Richard Davis and John Sloan — that the two suspected "from the beginning" that the money came from the CIA. They had waited for the CIA to exert pressure but this never came.

The guild now was seeking $300,000 for the program and if the state department didn't provide it, the American Institute for Free Labor Development might. The latter is 90-per-cent financed by the state department, Mr. Reistrup said.

Another delegate opposed use of any government funds because the guild would be unable to detect which might come from the CIA. Another felt "injury to my pride as a newspaper reporter" when the CIA link was reported.

Several had no qualms about taking government money as long as the guild got it openly, with no strings attached.

Former Nazi Held In Complicity Case

ANSBACH, West Germany (Reuters) — Police arrested a former Nazi police officer on suspicion of complicity in the Second World War murder of more than 5,000 Jews and Russian civilians. The Ansbach prosecutor alleged that former Lt.-Col. Egon Erzum, 60, was involved in the execution of Jews and Russians in the Minsk area of what was then Poland and now is the Soviet Union.

CORONER DIES

COOK, Ireland (AP) — John J. Horgan, 85, the coroner who recorded a verdict of wilful murder against the Kaiser and the German high command at an inquest on victims of the Lusitania, torpedoed by a German submarine off southern Ireland in 1915, died recently. The 32,000-ton Lusitania was torpedoed when she was six days out from New York. There were 1,959 passengers aboard, of whom 1,198 died. Her sinking was a factor in the entry of the United States into the First World War.

Feminine Touch Colors Canadian Crime Annals

By JOHN LeBLANC

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The feminine touch has added some special flourishes to the story of Canadian crime down through the years.

Eleven women have been hanged since Confederation, mostly for unimaginative murder. Here are stories of three who avoided the hangman, plus one who ranks among the world's great film-film experts, male or female.

CONFIDENCE ARTIST

Cassie Chadwick was an Ontario girl who perfected one of the most artistic con games of all time.

Cassie, born Lizzie Begley near Woodstock in 1887, was a homely, dumpy, partly deaf and had a speech impediment. But she was a superb actress and a sharp psychologist, and she had nerves of iron.

Mrs. Chadwick—she had married a member of Cleveland society after leaving home because of some amateurish forgery—got her big start around 1902 by letting word get about that she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie, the steel king.

After this had settled in, she turned up at a Cleveland bank with a tied-up parcel which, she informed the manager, was $5,000,000 in Carnegie's name.

It was estimated she took a bunch of New York and Ohio banks for $3,000,000, but the good life ended when a small one in Oberlin, Ohio, collapsed after she got into it for $20,000. Other banks trembled. Some had to issue statements saying Cassie had not tapped them. One paper said a "minor depression" followed the Canadian girl's depredations.

Arrested in 1904, Cassie got 10 years for fraud and died in jail three years later. An enterprising pharmacist later did well with a brace called Cassie Chadwick Nerve Tonic, something for which Cassie would have had no use at all.

THE CHOPPED-UP HUSBAND

The case of the chopped-up husband at Hamilton led to six murder charges but the Crown could not make any of them stick.

Bus driver John Dick's torso was found on Hamilton Mountain in March, 1946. He had been shot twice and his head, arms and legs hacked off—they were never found. Dick, 40, had been married five months to the former Evelyn MacLean, 25, who soon told police she had been sleeping with William Bohozuk, a hefty 27-year-old steelworker and ornstein, five days after her marriage.

She also told them Bohozuk had shot her husband with a gun provided by her father, Donald MacLean, a 68-year-old sawyer, and dismantled the body in her garage. All three plus MacLean's wife were promptly charged with murder.

Meanwhile police searching the Dick home found a suitcase with a baby's body in it. The youngster turned out to be a pre-marriage child of Evelyn, and she and Bohozuk were charged with murdering it.

Evelyn went on trial first on the charge of killing her husband and was convicted on the strength of her statement. The charge against her mother was thrown out at preliminary hearing. When the other two went on trial, Mrs. Dick refused to testify against them, earning a citation for contempt of court along with her death sentence.

The other two trials were deferred while Mrs. Dick appealed the murder conviction. The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled out her statement and gave her a new trial, at which she was acquitted. At a third murder trial—this one for the baby's death—she was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to life. Bohozuk was quickly acquitted of murder in both deaths.

Donald MacLean went on trial for the Dick killing but the judge took the murder case away from the jury and accepted a guilty plea to an accessory after the fact charge. MacLean, who worked for the Hamilton Street Railway, later pleaded guilty to stealing 28,200 tickets that had been found in his home during the murder investigation. He got five-year concurrent sentences on each charge.

THE BANNISTER CASE

Mrs. May Bannister needed a ready-made baby about six months old. As a result, five people died.

The evidence in New Brunswick's most widely-known criminal case was that she was engaged in 1936 in trying to raise money from two men by convincing each that he was the father of a child of hers. There was no infant, so she first displayed a doll wrapped in baby clothes. That didn't work, so she looked around for a real baby.

Her two sons and a daughter set out to kidnap six-month-old Betty, daughter of Philip and Bertha Lake, who were trapping from a small cabin at Pacific Lake. Lake was shot to death. The cabin was doused with gasoline and set afire.

The mother ran out with her 20-month-old son Jackie. She was chased and battered to death. Jackie was left where he fell and died in sub-zero weather.

Police found Betty in the Bannister home. The sons, Arthur, 19, and Daniel, 20, were hanged later the same year. The mother, convicted of harboring the abducted Betty, got three years in prison. Daughter Frances, 15, was charged with abduction but testified for the prosecution and the charge was dropped.

BABES IN THE PARK

On an October day in 1947, a woman wearing a fur coat and carrying an odd-looking hatchet walked into Vancouver's Stanley Park with two children.

A little later she left the park without the coat, hatchet or children, and hobbling on only one shoe.

More than five years later workmen came across the skeletons of a young boy and girl with their skulls caved in, covered with the rotted remnants of a fur coat, a hatchet and a woman's shoe lying nearby. The unburied bodies were covered with fallen leaves.

The killer left behind, seemingly, enough clues to solve a half-dozen murders. Up to now, no one has been able even to identify the youngsters, despite a hunt that has stretched across Canada and into several countries.

As police reconstruct it, the woman took the youngsters into the park on the evening of a picnic—remains of a lunch basket were found—and then smashed their heads in with the hatchet. In a moment of compassion, apparently, she tossed her yont over the bodies. Then she left in a panic, leaving a shoe behind.

Vancouver police still have the skeletons, and the file on the case of the Babes in the Park still remains open after 17 years.

Mental Patients Lose Votes

TORONTO (CP) — Persons with mental disorders lose the right to vote in federal elections and in provincial elections in nine provinces, says a report published Wednesday by the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The report, entitled Law and Mental Disorder, says patients in mental hospitals are grouped with criminal prisoners and disenfranchised.

British Columbia is the only province with no restriction. Vague election acts of the other nine provinces and Ottawa could deny the vote to persons on probation from a mental hospital, it says.

Those undergoing treatment in psychiatric units of general hospitals could also lose the vote.

"The situation becomes nothing less than absurd in provinces where the prohibition in the provincial enactment is operative different from that in the federal legislation," the report says.

Federal legislation disqualifies those who are under restraint of liberty of movement or deprived of the management of their property because of mental disease.

The CMHA report urges that hospitalization for psychiatric treatment should not disqualify an individual from voting. The report also recommends that a judgment placing the mentally ill person's estate under control of a guardian should not interfere with his vote.

Rain Needed On Prairies Soon If Not 'There's Next Year ...'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"We'll need rain in the next week or 10 days. If not there's always next year, you know."

John Moreland, in assessing the current drought afflicting his 2,560-acre wheat farm, says spring wheat crops were still capable of producing "decent" yields. But late-growing spring wheat, without rainfall, would amount to much of anything.

Winter wheat could produce 30 bushels an acre but spring wheat, now in the heading-out stage, was dependent on moisture for increasing yields.

Some patches of spring wheat show signs of burning from the sun and hot, dry winds, Mr. Moreland said.

Spokesmen in Alberta and Saskatchewan say that, with some exceptions, below normal wheat crops are still possible with additional rainfall by the first week of August.

In some areas, particularly wheat-belt Saskatchewan, additional moisture even this week would be too late to assist many crops.

"We'll be lucky to get half of last year's crop," said E. H. Evans, Saskatchewan's agriculture department's statistician. That crop totalled 546,000,000 bushels.

R. E. English, statistician for Alberta's department of agriculture, summed up that province's outlook with:

Every day of dry weather pushes the current wheat crop prospects farther below normal. The best farmers can hope for in the south is an average crop.

Overtime Tally Beats Coquitlam

By RON ALLERTON
Courier City Editor

A goal by Paul Parnell, his fifth of the game, with 45 seconds left in overtime, gave the New Westminster Salmonbellies a 11-10 win over the Coquitlam Adanacs in an Inter-City Lacrosse League game played in Kelowna Thursday night.

Led by Parnell, with four consecutive first period goals, the Salmonbellies led 8-5 after 20 minutes, but the Adanacs outscored New Westminster 3-2 in the second period and completely controlled the floor in the third for two unanswered goals, to send the game into overtime.

Although Coquitlam was clearly the favorite of the more than 1,500 fans the Salmonbellies moved into a second-place tie with the Adanacs, only three points behind co-leaders Vancouver and Victoria.

Although Parnell was almost the whole show for New Westminster junior Ken Winzowski scored twice for the winners and Wayne Shuttleworth picked up a goal and two assists.

Mike Gates was easily the best Adanac on the floor, with two goals and three assists.

Coquitlam scored first and led 2-1 after four minutes and 37 seconds.

Parnell's four first period goals, scored in seven minutes and 29 seconds, gave the Bellies what appeared to be an insurmountable lead.

But the Adanacs, led by goalie Joe Comeau, wouldn't quit and with 5:19 left in the third period sent the game into overtime, on a goal by Carey, from Gates.

Comeau, the hero earlier, cost his team mates a tie with less than a minute remaining. The chunky goalie attempted a floor-length pass to Mac Tyler, which was picked off by the Salmonbellies' Larry Henry. Henry passed quickly to Ed McDonald, who relayed to Parnell and the veteran made no mistake with a low shot to the short side.

The shots were even, 46 each, but Coquitlam took nine penalties, including a 10-minute misconduct to Doug Wallsmith, of New Westminster's five.

One Long Home Run Blast Spells Defeat For Mounties

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A trio of long home runs spelled 7-3 Pacific Coast League victory for the Indianapolis Indians over the Tulsa Oilers Thursday night.

And just one of those long shots was enough for the Tacoma Cubs to win a 3-2 decision over the Vancouver Mounties.

The winners' runs in each game all came on homers. In the other contests, Oklahoma City edged Phoenix 7-6, Spokane dumped Denver 5-1, Portland beat Seattle 7-4, and Hawaii defeated San Diego 3-1.

Cotton Nash lashed a homer in the bottom of the first frame with the bases loaded to start Indianapolis off. The fourth came along, and Dan Breedon clouted another for two more runs for the Indians. Then Nash slugged a solo homer in the sixth for the Indians' last counter.

Joe Overton pitched the distance for the winners, posting his fifth victory against two losses. He yielded 11 hits, though compared with seven for Indianapolis. Overton whiffed five and walked two.

One man was out at Tacoma when Joe Boccabella came up with two Tacoma mates aboard. He brought both home with his second homer since he came down from the parent Chicago Cubs two weeks ago.

Southpaw Bob Meyer blanked the Cubs on six hits, and he fanned 12 through 8 1-3 innings, but manager Mickey Vernon called in Bob Duhba, who served up the homer for Boccabella.

The bases were loaded at Oklahoma City when Ron Henry came to bat for the home team and singled to drive in the winning run. The winners knotted the score moments before in that inning when Tommy Murray singled, Doug Rader doubled, Ernie Fazio was walked intentionally, and then Leon McFadden walked, forcing in Murray.

Spokane, which laced out 11 hits, broke open a tight game with a three-run sixth on singles by Cleo James and Mike Fararo, a triple by Tommy Dean and a single by Bruce Brubaker in Dean. Brubaker was the winning hurler, going the distance for his seventh win against five losses. He yielded eight hits, fanned six and walked one.

Nine batters scored four runs in the sixth for Portland's win. The big hit of that frame was a double by winning pitcher Willie Smith, which plated two runs. Dave Nelson batted in two runs for Portland with singles in the second and sixth, and Jay Fosse tripled in a run for the down from the parent Chicago winners in the seventh.

One Loss, Two Defeats For Canadian Team

WINNIPEG (CP) — Time ran out on Richie Spears, the big Halifax basketball, and with it possibly Canada's chances of sending a men's basketball team to the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

Spears scored Canada's last basket with five seconds left, but the clock ran out and Argentina won 71-69.

The loss was Canada's third in the Pan-American Games tournament, and dropped her to last place in group B. Only the top three in group A and B qualify for the championship single round-robin.

Canada is bracketed with Mexico, Brazil, Argentina and Cuba. In group A are the United States, Puerto Rico, Panama, Peru and Colombia.

Canada is one of six countries vying in the tournament for the remaining two berths from the American zone for the 1968 Olympics. The others are Argentina, Cuba, Panama, Colombia and Peru.

The Argentines appeared to have the win safely in hand when the Canadians shifted to a full court defence and fast-breaking attacks to cut a 15-point deficit to a single point.

With 45 seconds left, Ricardo Alix scored three points for Argentina on a field goal and foul shot, making Spears' basket a futile gesture.

Spears, a rugged 6-foot-2 guard who was born in New Waterford, N.S., scored six points. John Cook of Winnipeg to a 69-65 victory. Brazil leads with two wins. The U.S. defeated Cuba 82-48, the third loss for the Cubans.

and Barry Howson of Sarnia, Ont., each scored 19 points to lead the Canadians. Tomas Sandor led Argentina with 25 points.

The U.S. and Mexico are the group leaders, each with 3-0 won-lost records. The U.S. swamped Panama 122-73, Mexico defeated Brazil 66-54, and Puerto Rico beat Peru 57-54.

In the women's tournament, a five-country double round-robin, unbeaten Brazil dropped Canada from the undefeated ranks with

A Flag For A Flag

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Olympic flag stolen from Winnipeg Stadium at the start of the Pan-American Games is being replaced by one which made a shady trip to Canada from the 1964 Olympics in Japan.

Harry Badger, Pan-Am Flag Committee chairman, was asked who the donor was.

"I don't think I'd better tell you his name," Badger said.

"Wasn't the flag come by honestly?" he was asked.

"No," was the reply, "as a matter of fact it wasn't."

A Little Rain Aids McLain

Detroit Tigers may be basing their hopes for the American League pennant on soccer, rain and Denny McLain.

The Tigers, with a strange combination of circumstances behind them, were allowed to pitch their ace, McLain, somewhat out of rotation Thursday night and he responded with a seven-hit, 4-0 victory over Baltimore Orioles, lifting the Tigers back into third place in the American League.

Washington Senators took Kansas City Athletics 6-4 while Cleveland Indians at league leading Chicago White Sox were rained out in the other Thursday night games. Boston Red Sox edged California Angels 6-5 in 10 innings and New York Yankees whipped Minnesota Twins 6-2 in afternoon action.

The Tigers, forced out of Detroit because of race riots, had four days off in Baltimore, because of a combination of rain, and a stadium commitment to a soccer game.

McLain, a 23-year-old right-hander, took advantage of the rest, struck out four, walked none and kept the Orioles' hits well spread in gaining his 12th victory of the season.

Dick McAuliffe drove in two runs with a homer and a single. Washington scored five runs before a man was out in the first inning and coasted in against Kansas City. Cap Peterson drove in two with a homer and Frank Howard two more with a triple.

DENNY MCCLAIN
... top Tiger

Boston's victory left the Red Sox one game back of Chicago while the Angels slipped to fourth.

Reggie Smith got the winner in the 10th, leading off with a triple and racing home on a ground out.

Joe Foy had a two-run homer and Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott also hit homers for Boston. Don Mincher connected for California, a three-run blast. Steve Whitaker doubled in the winning run for New York in a decisive three-run fifth inning.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this very way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

No Surprises In Pan-Ams As Americans Clean Up

WINNIPEG (CP) — The fifth Pan-American Games are becoming a United States vs. Elaine Tanner battle in the water and the U.S. vs. all comers on land.

The Americans have dominated the hemispheric games as everyone predicted and even before the weekend action in track and field—another U.S. forte—they have all but locked up the team title.

Thursday the Americans won 18 gold medals and ran their total to 28. Second-place Canada is far behind with three. No other country has won more than one.

Two of Canada's medals have been won by Elaine Tanner, the only double gold medalist so far in the Games. On each occasion her medal-winning swim shattered a world record.

Alf Mayer of Kitchener, Ont., won Canada's first gold medal, with a world record—tying score Wednesday of 598 out of 600 points in the English match rifle competition.

The American harvests so far have come in swimming and wrestling, eight in each. The U.S. gymnasts have won four golds and expected to almost triple that total before the gym events end. American swimmers, too, have been busy cracking world records and so far have shattered three marks and broken the Pan-Am standards for another five they have won.

Today gold medals will be awarded in 10 gymnastic events, four cycling and one in both fencing and shooting.

Miss Tanner's second gold and world record came Thursday night in the women's 100-metre backstroke where she was timed in 1:07.3, nipping one-tenth of a second off the standard set a year ago by Ann Fairlie of South Africa.

It took almost an hour to confirm the record while officials huddled to discuss what to do about the hundredths of a second column showing on a new electronic timer. Eventually, it was ruled that any fraction under five would be dropped but anything five and above would be taken to the next tenths of a second.

The 16-year-old Vancouver schoolgirl is entered in six other events.

Debbie Meyer, the 14-year-old Sacramento, Calif., sensation, shattered the world record in the women's 400-metre freestyle with a time of 4:32.6, easily surpassing a 4:36.4 clocking set earlier this summer by team-mate Pamela Kruse.

Ken Walsh, 22, of East Lansing, Mich., broke the men's 100-metre freestyle as a member of the winning 400-metre relay squad. He covered the distance in 52.6, three-tenths of a second under the previous mark shared by American Steve Clark and Alain Gottvalles of France.

Canada's swimmers picked up a silver and four third-place bronzes. The silver was won by the 400 freestyle team of Ron Jacks, Vancouver, Ralph Hutton and Sandy Gilchrist, Ocean Falls, B.C., and Bob Kasting of Lethbridge, Alta.

Angel Coughlan, 14, of Burlington, Ont., won a bronze in the women's 400 freestyle. Shirley Cazalet of Vancouver came third in the 100 backstroke. Gilchrist in the 200 individual medley and Jim Shaw of Toronto in the 100 backstroke.

Canada also added a bronze in fencing, where Peter Samek of Toronto edged his younger brother, Leslie, in the individual sabre event. In Wrestling, Ray Loughheed of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Bob Chambreaud of Montreal, won silvers and Nick Schori of Guelph, Ont., a bronze.

Canada's field hockey team remained undefeated with a 3-0 victory over Netherlands Antilles which left it in a three-way tie for second place a point behind Argentina. Canada's soccer team defeated the U.S. 2-1 to remain undefeated in its group; and two yachtsmen—John Clarke of Toronto in the Finn class and Don Allen of Clarkston, Ont., in the Lightning—were fourth after two races.

Canada's basketball teams were beaten. The women lost 69-55 to Brazil and the men made a great closing drive in 71-69 loss to Argentina.

Top-seeded Vicki Berner of Vancouver and Faye Urban of Windsor, Ont., lost their composure after a borderline umpire's ruling and blew a semifinal doubles match to Ecuador's Eugenia Guzman and Ana Maria Icaza, 1-6, 8-6, 7-5.

In women's volleyball, the inexperienced but game Canadians lost their third straight match, 15-4, 15-8, 15-8, to Mexico.

And Canada's baseball team, riddled by the loss of four front-line players because their background included professional activity, made a valiant stand against the U.S. before bowing 14-10 in a wild game.

Days Of Second Fiddle Over For Joe Zaleski

WINNIPEG (CP)—Joe Zaleski is swinging the head coach's stick with authority after 12 seasons as a second fiddle with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The coal miner's son from Pennsylvania made it clear on the first day of practice he wants his Western Football Conference ensemble to play the tune in a way different to that favored by his illustrious predecessor—Harry Peter (Bud) Grant.

Zaleski's arrangement of the Blue Bombers' song includes a new huddle, stance, spacing of linemen and audibles—wherein plays can be changed by a shrill bark from the quarterback.

"He has got us playing up-to-date football," said Dave Raimey, the halfback whose spectacular running helped carry Winnipeg to second place last season. Grant didn't use audibles.

"I have spent considerably more time studying the play-book this year than in other seasons," said quarterback Kenny Ploen.

As in Grant's 10-year reign, defence is the key but with Zaleski variations.

Billy Cooper is earmarked for the defensive backfield, with Ken Nielsen switching to flanker. The scramble for Nielsen's end position includes imports Everett Fullwood and Gary Plumlee and natives Gordie Brown and Noel Dunford.

DAVE RAIMEY . . . pleased

The safety job, vacated by American Football League-bound Barrie Hansen, belongs to Marty Rosen if he can handle it.

Others to impress in the defending backfield are Chip Barrett and Bill Van Burkleo, Toronto Argonauts obtained in a trade for Dick Thornton.

"The defence is looking good," said assistant coach Billy Butler, ticking off returning stalwarts Al Miller, Phil Minniek, Ernie Pitts, Norm Rauhaus, Ed Ulmer, Bill Whistler and Bob Taylor.

"The backfield isn't crisp yet, but that is to be expected as we have a lot of new people in there."

Zaleski said Cornell Piper is his right tackle. On the left is Frank Rigney. Incumbent guard Bob Reed is running slightly ahead of Murray Rol-hiser and newcomer Lou Morda and Roger Bank.

Three other 1966 names were missing. Norm Winton and Farrell Funston have retired and Bill Restelli has exchanged football gear for a United States army uniform.

Zaleski, who in his playing days was an understudy to quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs, was Bombers' second-line choice for head coach after Grant moved to Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League in March. Assistant coach John Michels got the first offer, but elected to follow Grant.

Zaleski also got an offer from his former boss, but turned it down for a two-year Winnipeg contract.

"I wanted to stay in Winnipeg," he said, knowing full well that the fans will expect success after five WFC championships and four Grey Cup triumphs under Grant.

Groin problems may spoil rookie import Ken Dukes' firm bid for the fullback slot, vacant with the transfer of Art Perkins to Edmonton Eskimos.

ANN LANDERS

Impossible To Know How Different Men React

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is presently serving in Vietnam. I have always trusted him implicitly and am confident that under normal conditions he would never stray. But now I wonder. Is it too much to expect that a healthy, virile, young husband will remain faithful while fighting in a combat zone?

I have heard that men who must face danger every day of their lives soon get to thinking, "Why not live it up? Tomorrow I might not be here." When a fighting man returns, should his wife ask him if he has been faithful? What if he says "no"? And what if he doesn't ask him and she confesses to rid himself of the guilt? What should her attitude be?

MYRTLE BEACH. Dear Myrtle: You can't lump all men together (service or other wise) and state flatly that they will all react the same way under any given set of circumstances. Some husbands remain faithful even though they are separated from their wives for years. Others go catting around when their wives check into the hospital for five days to have a baby.

A wife should not ask a husband if he has been faithful. If he confesses to an indiscretion she should listen, forgive him and never bring the matter up again.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who is also 17 has a brother who is semi-retarded. He is 23, nice looking and can carry on a fairly good conversation. According to his sister he has the mentality of a 14-year-old.

My friend takes her brother to meetings where teenagers gather, and to some social events.

I feel uncomfortable around this boy because he really doesn't fit into the group. Everyone is pleasant to him (I am, too, of course) but somehow I think his sister is not doing right by him because one of these days he is going to be in for a big disappointment.

What is your opinion?—R.I. MISS.

Dear Miss: The boy's sister sounds like a fine girl and deserves praise, not criticism. Many retarded people progress beautifully when they are encouraged to move around socially. It gives them confidence and adds enormously to their general welfare and outlook. I hope you and the others will continue to treat this young man as you would anyone else.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a member of a swim club. We have several social events during the summer and the women, especially, enjoy putting on dances.

I would never dream of going up to a man and asking him to dance with me. The idea of cutting in on a man who is dancing with another woman is simply revolting. Yet, Ann, it seems as if I cannot dance one entire number with my husband. Somebody always cuts in. I feel like a fool having him snatched away in that manner.

I would like to know how to put a stop to this. My husband is a very handsome man and an extremely good dancer. He knows I am ticked about this but he says he can't do anything about it. Is there something I can do?—INDIGNANT.

Dear In: Yes, you can grow up and be a gracious wife—or you can continue to do a slow burn and look like a jealous, insecure female.

Lots Of 'Psychology' Involved In The Art Form Of Stripping

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—"Hips come out here," the instructor illustrated, "and the arms accented."

The six scantily-clad girls on stage watched her closely. "Now bump, bump, bump." The instructor, Pollyanna Anderson, kept one tassel perfectly still while rotating the other.

Miss Anderson teaches classes for girls wanting to become professional strippers. She and her cousin, Judy Bent, opened the school. Both strippers, they quit the nightclub circuit to teach instead.

While the students tried to imitate her bump and grind, she explained: "I couldn't say it's something you're born with. It's in knowing how to build up the muscles that revolve the chest, and it takes a lot of hard work and discipline. That's why I make the girls do their exercise religiously."

MISS LINDBERG HOUSE DETROIT, Mich. The three-story house where famed aviator Charles Lindbergh was born survived Detroit's riots, although the home next to it was destroyed by a fire that was deliberately set.

Hemlines Go Up And Down But It Wasn't Always Case

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

It's only in the last few decades that the fashionable woman has had to worry about hemlines going up and down.

But for many years before that the shape of her skirts and sleeves just wouldn't hold still.

They puffed out first here then there. And as they approached the relatively smooth, straight lines of the early 20th century they were trimmed with extras that sometimes depended on complicated networks of tapes and metal strips to give them their proper shape.

Katharine Brett, curator of textiles at the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, has traced the history of clothing in Canada in an illustrated catalogue. It's used for an exhibition of fashions in Canada from 1780 to 1967 that can be seen at the museum until September.

In Canada's early years, settlers often brought clothes with them. Once settled, they would order them from Europe. One reason was the scarcity of fabrics, skilled dressmakers and tailors in most areas of the new land. One fact that makes Mrs. Brett's job difficult is that the imported "best" dresses, often altered several times, are the ones that usually survived.

OTHERS WORN OUT

Clothes made of linens and wools woven by women starting with the flax or the sheep rarely survived because they were either worn out, cut down for the children or wound up in quilts.

Until the late 19th century it was a fairly simple matter to make a dress. You cut your pattern from existing garments or perhaps used a scale print in women's magazines.

Early 19th century styles were fairly simple, with straight sleeves, a slim, straight-lined skirt and high waistline. During succeeding decades the waistline tightened and dropped to the natural waist. Bodices were boned and pointed at the waist.

As the waist narrowed, the skirt ballooned. By the 1840s it took seven or eight widths of material 18 to 23 inches wide. And in the 1850s the crinoline replaced layers of petticoats.

In the decade of Confederation, the bodice remained essentially the same, but the waistline straightened out again. Sleeves began wide and gradually came down to a sleeve like that in a man's suit.

The round skirt was on its way to developing a bustle. It flattened in front, flowed smoothly over the hip and began to gather fullness in the back.

MACHINES ADOPTED. Cloaks, jackets and mantles styled to accommodate the skirt replaced the Paisley shawl, and hats began to replace bonnets.

The sewing machine began to come into real use in the 1860s, when at least the long main seams were done on it. And by the 1870s more seamstresses and tailors were available, even necessary, to make the complicated styles.

The bustle and train and their elaborate accoutrements had their heyday in the 1870s and '80s. Tapes underneath skirts pulled them tight across the thighs and added fullness in the back.

Metal strips were sewn into underskirts and pulled into curves by tapes to form a bustle.

As trappings became more complicated, the skirt was often a simple, fitted foundation to which pleats and folds of material were added.

The buttoned boot and laced and strapped shoes made their appearance, with heels about an inch and a half high.

At the beginning of the 20th century, Mrs. Brett says, the emphasis shifted from skirt to bodice. Skirts, except for some back fullness, became smooth and simple.

STILL BONED

The 1890s saw the popularity of the leg o' mutton sleeve and the fitted bodice give way to one with soft folds and draperies. It wasn't any more comfortable, however. The trappings were attached to a lining that was still fitted and boned.

Early in this century the lines looked much as they had almost a century earlier—vertical, basically simple, with a slightly high waist.

In the period before the First World War the hobble skirt appeared. Mrs. Brett says it wasn't as hard to walk in as it appears to be. Unobtrusive pleating or a subtle cut allowed the wearer some freedom.

The biggest innovation of the time was the disappearance of restrictive underpinnings in clothes. The war brought in a full, swinging skirt, startlingly short, sometimes just touching the top of the laced high boots.

That was the beginning of the familiar problem. Hemlines dropped again in 1918, started to rise, dropped in 1923 to the ankle, then rose steadily until they reached the knee where they stayed for a few years.

DRESSES SIMPLER

Dresses in the 1920s were simpler than ever and the now-traditional side seam opening became a standard. However, the beaded evening dresses of the period had no openings—they slipped on over the head.

The zipper came into use in the 1930s, as did bias cuts, even in coats, cowl and V necklines and narrow or bawling sleeves. The hemline dropped, then rose again to just below the knee during the Second World War.

The silhouette of the 1930s—broad shoulders, natural waistline, swinging skirt—continued through the war years.

Mrs. Brett says the 1947 New Look with tight waist, full skirt and hemline only seven inches from the floor brought the power of Paris home to Canadian women in a major way for the first time.

It was an influence in the 1950s when the pencil-thin and triangular silhouettes were battling for supremacy and remains today in the chemise and tent dress.

The skirt length, meanwhile, stayed about mid-calf until 1958, rose to the knee, dropped, then in 1963 began its current rise to mini-skirted heights.

Blonde Didn't Quail

HALIFAX (CP)—In late 1929 when the effects of the Wall Street crash echoed across the world, even the toughest businessman quailed at the thought of launching a new venture.

But a blonde, 22-year-old Halifax girl decided 1929 was just the right year to start a new business.

When Helen Reynolds approached her bank manager and asked him for a loan so she could start her own customs brokerage business he told her: "Go home, find a nice young man and settle down."

But Helen Reynolds refused to go home and settle down. She went instead to another bank and she got her loan.

Today the business she started in 1929 is one of Halifax's largest customs brokerage firms, employing 12 people. After founding her business, Miss Reynolds agreed a young man, Douglas Christie, should become a partner.

The two had worked together at H. M. Wiley and Co., a firm importing tea and English jams.

Reynolds and Christie Ltd. still occupies the same offices on Hollis Street they moved into in the early '30s.

Miss Reynolds married her partner and today is the firm's secretary-treasurer.

MUST KNOW TRICKS Customs brokers advise clients on customs regulations, carry out necessary documentation for customs clearance and forward goods to destinations across Canada.

They are also responsible for paying dock dues, wharfage charges for the storage of goods and freight charges.

"You have to have a mass of customs regulations and tariff rates at your fingertips," Mrs. Christie says. "I think you also need a mind like an adding machine and you must not be afraid of hard work."

In Canada there are some 400 licensed customs brokers but only about seven are women.

"This year has been very busy," Mrs. Christie said, "partly because of the longshoremen's strike in St. Lawrence ports and the fact there was an increased flow of cargo through Halifax."

In the fall the Maritime Division of the Dominion Chartered Brokers' Association will be host to the national association's annual convention here.

Mrs. Christie will be the chairman and is principal organizer.

Dior Revives Old Memories

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior put his "something-for-everyone" winter fashions on display today, with skirts hovering at knee caps and sometimes a bit shorter.

Dior revived memories of 18th century France, with elegant lace jabots and frills and flounces at the wrists. Many wrists were decorated in feathers or fringes in plain fabrics in black or in bright-colored crepes.

One of designer Marc Bohan's trends was a school-girl line. He did it in plaid or striped wool, or in black velvet for after five.

White satin blouses and collars are part of a jeune fille group.

There was a big satin story, too, as Dior opened his collection to fashion writers, two days after a buyers-only show. Black satin, as well as white, orange and sapphire blue are shown throughout for both daytime and evening wear.

For daytime, there were belted shirtwaist dresses, with simple detailing. For evening, there were beautiful and symmetrical slinky sheaths, treated to yokes and bands on the hips. They were bordered at the hemline in glittering jewelled embroidery.

Also for evening was a large group of plain chiffons in deep jewel colors—ruby, emerald, orange and blue, as well as black and white. Hemlines were cut away at the knees in front, drifting in the back to the floor.

For daytime outdoors, Bohan's models were slim and slender.

There were little suits with fitted tailored jackets, cut out close to the body with four patch pockets. Skirts flared in funnel shapes or had a deep inverted centre pleat, rarely cut straight.

Bride-To-Be Honored

WESTBANK — The home of Mrs. James Fenton, Lakeview Heights, was the scene, recently, of a surprise bridal shower honoring Miss Robin Adair Landon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Landon, of Armstrong, whose marriage to James Leroy Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Petersen, Manhattan Drive, Kelowna, and formerly of Westbank, will take place Saturday.

The variety of gifts were piled in a box modeled as a miniature laboratory, typifying the groom's work in chemical engineering with Columbia Cellulose, Prince Rupert. The replica was cleverly completed with test tubes with colored water to simulate various chemicals, a puppet—the groom's mascot at UBC—and the whole surrounded with samples of the Company's pulp by-products.

Seated with the bride-elect on the chesterfield were Mrs. Landon and Mrs. Petersen, and assisting the guest of honor in opening her gifts was Miss Susan Kaerne, of Kelowna. On completing her task Miss Landon thanked the assembled company for her gifts and the accompanying good wishes, after which refreshments were served by the hostess and several of her friends.

Canada Is Ideal For Longevity

NEW YORK (CP)—Want to live longer? If you're a woman past 60, Canada is the place to be.

On the average, Canadian women at 65 may expect to live another 16.1 years.

Figures compiled by the U.S. National Centre for Health Statistics and a large life insurance firm show that Canadian women rank ahead of those of Norway, The Netherlands and the United States in that order.

Individual Women Assured Of Hearing Before Royal Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Individual women with complaints about their status were assured Thursday of a hearing by the royal commission on the status of women.

Chairman Anne Francis said the commission is eager to hear from women, or men, who want to submit a brief on their own. Miss Francis was replying to Ottawa Controller Ellen Webber who was quoted in a Montreal interview as saying the commission wasn't accepting briefs from individuals, only organizations.

Briefs from individuals are not only accepted but encouraged, said the commission chairman, a well-known broadcaster who in private life is Mrs. John Bird.

"They will be studied and checked and kept secret and confidential so that any woman with a complaint about her job need not be afraid of losing it."

She said in an interview that the commission is also interested in the views of young people and men.

The commission would not likely listen to personal complaints at its public hearings, expected to begin in the spring of 1968. Deadline for submission of briefs is next Feb. 29.

'Great Masquerader' Aim By Attractive P.E.I. Nurse

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—An attractive nurse has spent the month of June using the sweat test to find the "great masquerader" in Prince Edward Island.

The great masquerader is a name sometimes given to cystic fibrosis, a hereditary disease that appears about once in every 1,000 births and is usually fatal before a child reaches the age of 15.

No cure has yet been found for it. The sweat test is simply a reading of the sodium chloride or common salt in a person's sweat. If a highly sensitive voltmeter detects an unusual amount of salt, it indicates the presence of cystic fibrosis.

The test was given to every school child up to 18 years, as well as every pre-school child and infant on the island, 40,000 people in all. The Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation decided to conduct the tests in Prince Edward Island because of its static population.

The attractive nurse supervising the testing program was Jo Ann Korochee of the University of Minnesota cystic fibrosis clinic.

The test is simple, quick and painless. A small heat pack, similar to packs cooled in refrigerators for use with picnic lunches, is warmed to about 130 degrees and put on a child's arm. The arm and pack are wrapped in a towel for five minutes. The arm sweats under the heat pack.

The towel and pack are then removed and a small diode is touched to the sweaty spot on the arm.

If the reading is normal, the child has not got cystic fibrosis. If an abnormal amount of sodium chloride is indicated, the child's parents are notified and a massive program of care is planned.

Cystic fibrosis has been dubbed the great masquerader because it is often fatal to children without being recognized. The foundation says it is the single most serious cause of chronic disease and death in children.

Its main characteristic is a thickening of mucus in the body. The result is a progressive loss of efficiency in the body organs, such as the liver, kidneys and lungs.

Breathing becomes difficult as the lungs and bronchial tubes become clogged with the rubbery mucus. A child may catch pneumonia and be unable to throw it off.

TREATMENT COSTLY

The disease is hereditary. If two carriers of it marry, chances are that one of four children will escape the carrying gene, two will be carriers and the fourth will die of cystic fibrosis before he reaches his mid-teens.

Treatment is expensive. Drugs for one child may cost $150 a month. Some families have two, three or four children with the disease.

Although there is no cure, the foundation can help the parents of victims to plan for the ordeal ahead of them.

The foundation also provides what financial assistance it can and tries to provide equipment such as oxygen tents at a cost lower than normal.

It's time for a trouble-free

Canada Council 'Aghast' At Bids To Form New Ballet Companies

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada Council says it has "watched aghast" various tentative moves to form new ballet companies.

The country needs a fourth ballet company like it needs a third railroad, the council said in its 10th annual report made public today.

The report surveys the development of the arts in Canada in the last decade.

Ballet, music, visual arts, theatre, opera and writing are assessed separately.

"With our finger in the financial dyke, we sometimes wonder if Canada may have more ballet than it can really afford," the report says. "It costs more to keep a ballerina in the field than a U.S. soldier."

THREE COMPANIES

Canada now has three major companies—the National Ballet of Toronto, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, and Montreal's Grands Ballets Canadiens. With revenues of $1,300,000 this season, they have a combined budget of $2,900,000.

Ballet, next to theatre, was the costliest art the Council assists, the report says.

The council suggests that the three companies try to cut costs by co-operating more—notably in training dancers.

It praises Canadian theatre attendance 1,055,000; box office revenues $2,430,000; operating costs $4,200,000 for such co-operation.

French and English Canadian directors, actors, singers, dancers and composers had found "stimulus in working together."

The council would continue to promote the movement. Musically, concerts given by orchestras that the council helps are drawing an audience of 1,400,000 and revenues of $2,200,000, with spending well ahead of $4,600,000.

COSTS SOARING

The report notes that while audiences have doubled and revenues have tripled in the last 10 years, spending has quadrupled for all major arts organizations.

Harder work behind the scenes was one reason and it was showing in the quality of concerts.

Where the symphonies had been "casual conglomerations of underpaid musicians," they were becoming "fine instruments of music."

The Montreal and Toronto symphonies were "quite clearly, and by international standards, considerable instruments of music." In Vancouver, Winnipeg, Quebec and Edmonton, other symphonies were arising, plus the National Youth Orchestra.

"Perhaps the greatest stimulus to the Canadian composer during the decade has been the carefully planned series of commissioning grants made by the federal centennial commission and the commissioning of four operas by the CBC."

PLANS MORE GRANTS

The council said its own grants have resulted in 30 new works since 1957 and it plans to continue these grants after the Centennial Year.

Meanwhile, "soaring costs" could be expected as orchestras moved closer to full employment.

Operationally, Montreal "positively bursts" with talent—Leopold Simoneau, Louis Quilico, Pierrette Alarie and others.

The city had conductors, set and costume designers aplenty, a fine orchestra and the 3,000-seat Salle Wilfrid Pelletier in the Place des Arts.

WORLD OPERA CENTRE
"In the meantime, under the influence of Expo 67 World Festival, Montreal will become a world capital of opera as it plays host to so many visiting companies."

The report notes that it costs $40,000 to stage a single major opera performance in the Place des Arts.

Century Singers Celebrate Close To Successful Season

A barbecue party at the home of Dudley and Eleanor Pritchard in Westbank, marked the close of the first season of the Century Singers.

With a mutual interest in music, and members talented in both vocal and instrumental music, this group of Westbank citizens got together and formed a glee club, under the direction of Margaret Purdy. Hard work went into their efforts to become a vocal ensemble, when they met every two weeks, at the homes of different members.

The Century Singers were encouraged during the season by a visit from Millard Foster of Kelowna, who came as guest conductor and gave the group further impetus to achieve the high standard of accomplishment, they displayed in their performances.

The group was honored to sing for Westbank's pioneer dinner—especially as one of those honored was Mrs. M. E. Pritchard, a patron of the Century Singers.

The second public appearance of the group was at the charter night of the Westbank Lions Club, another new organization in the community. Mr. Foster was also guest accompanist at the Lions Club performance for both the Century Singers and guest soloist, Gwen Harding.

The enthusiastic reception of the guests at this event, was supported with a more tangible acknowledgment in a gift of money from the Lions, with which the singers can buy much needed music to enlarge their repertoire.

On July 1—a big day in Westbank—the Century Singers added their contribution to the celebration by performing at the two centennial balls.

The Century Singers also sent a representative to the re-activated Community Arts Council, as a means of expressing their support in other groups which are interested in fine art for the pleasure it gives, not only to themselves, but to others. Officials of the Century Singers are Paul Pierron, president, and Lola Stone, secretary.

Young Pop Music Group In Centre Of Cash Island

OTTAWA (CP)—In the middle of the pop music scene, surrounded by flashing lights, weird clothes and songs with an undertone of marijuana and other beat pleasures, there is a small square island. The Staccatos.

They make more money and sell more records than any other Canadian group, but their way of life tends more toward American Dream than Chelsea Mod or Yorkville Hip.

They put all their spare money in a mutual fund and their three free days a week they spend in Ottawa, a city that is not exactly a mecca for the hippies.

When the subject of drugs comes up, they slyly say that one of the group is a regular user. He takes a doctor's prescription for post-nasal drip.

But the rustic days may be numbered. They're going to Hollywood sound studios to record their next set, and this summer they'll get $10,000, the highest fee ever to a Canadian group, for eight half-hour shows at an Ontario summer resort.

ACTS LIKE BANKER

Will success spoil them? If it does it will have shafted five really different types of people.

There's bearded Vern Craig, 26, for instance. He's a rhythm guitarist, looks like an Italian sculptor and acts like a genial bank executive.

The other bearded Staccato is Rick Bell, 21. Brown-haired and thin, with horn-rimmed spectacles, he looks like a sensitive British writer though he talks tough.

His little brother Mike, 19, is the group's second drummer. When he joined about

Dead Airmen Identified

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The two U.S. Air Force officers killed in the crash of an EB57 twin-jet reconnaissance bomber Tuesday at Whitehorse, Y.T., were identified by the Alaska Air Command Wednesday.

They were Maj. Fred E. Williams IV of Newburgh, N.Y., the pilot, and Capt. Stephen Thornton of Miami, Fla., the navigator.

The EB57 crashed and disintegrated during a landing attempt at Whitehorse. It was in a flight of 13 planes en route from Stewart Air Force Base, New York, to Eielson AFB near Fairbanks, Alaska, to take part in an air defence exercise. The Whitehorse stop was for refueling.

The wrecked plane, an adaptation of the British Canberra bomber, hit an embankment about 300 yards from the end of the runway.

two years ago he replaced blonde Brian Rading, 20, as the resident pet. Brian, the bass guitarist, is the happy Staccato.

Les Emmerson, 21, is the sincere Staccato. He plays lead guitar and writes all the group's songs.

"You have to work really hard these days to get any reaction at all," he says. "The pop music shows are gassed right out. The people who go to them have seen everything and nothing excites them any more."

SOME SHOWS FLOP

Vern says that's why they won't predict their future, because pop groups are falling on their faces all over the country. He says flop rock shows lost $50,000 for promoters in one recent weekend in Ontario alone.

Even they have hit a few scenes where audience reaction was pretty restrained.

"That's when we say 'thanks for the applause,'" Rick says.

But more than the consumers' love, they value the approval of other groups.

"You can be making all the money in the world and not having the respect of other groups, and that's bad," Les says.

They agree what they want to do is stay together and "progress." Their music has changed since the nucleus group started five years ago and now they stress the vocal. For their fellow Canadians like Paul Anka and Lorne Greene who have found success, they have only kind words.

"Don't knock anybody who's made it, because making it is hard," says Les.

So stay tuned, Staccato people. The four new songs the fun five are recording in Hollywood hit the record stores this month. They've been asked to sing for the Queen in August and go on a British tour in September.

And for every song they sell, there's 10 more cents for the mutual fund.

Ambush Becomes Art Form During War In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Millennia ago, a caveman crouched behind a boulder, stone axe in hand, and waited for his unwary enemy to trudge up the trail. The enemy arrived, the axe swished through the air and the ambush was born.

Today in Vietnam the ambush has been raised to its highest level of cunning and effectiveness by the Viet Cong, who otherwise might have been defeated long ago by U.S. firepower in conventional battle.

It is the Viet Cong's most successful tactic by far and has given them their most clear-cut victories over U.S. troops.

Typical of these operations was a recent attack on a company of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands.

CHARLIE OPENS UP

"We were just sitting on the trail, taking a break, you know, and then old Charlie opens up with those damned AK-47 assault rifles and whammo... we were really in trouble," a corporal recalled.

Half the men of the corporal's company were killed or wounded in three hours of fighting.

The infantry company probably had been trailed by the North Vietnamese for days. The sudden burst of fire caught the Americans sprawled on the ground. Many didn't move after the first volley.

The Americans use the ambush, too. One night south of the Da Nang air base a marine unit on ambush patrol began hearing

Vietnamese voices and suddenly sighted between 100 and 200 Viet Cong bent on attacking the base. The marines opened fire. The patrol was badly cut up, but the shots alerted the big base to the impending attack. Pirates.

400 Silent Years End For Monks?

COOL—without *air conditioning?

These two men have identical offices. Both are at the same comfortable temperature. One has a large air conditioner grinding away. The other has silence.

"A" has taken the direct approach by buying a machine to pump the sun's heat back outdoors. "B" has wisely kept the heat outside in the first place. And he has done it without expensive awnings, drapes or blinds, and without spoiling his view.

Therm-O-Lux film, bonded to his windows, lets light in, but reflects heat back outside. It's a job that curtains or blinds can't do. Once the sun's rays are inside, the damage is done.

Therm-O-Lux is a space-age development—microscopically thin aluminum deposited on a stable, transparent film of DuPont Mylar. Quickly and inexpensively installed on your windows, it rejects as much as 85% of the sun's heat. The low initial cost is the only cost. There are no maintenance or operating expenses.

ADVERTISING IS YOUR BUYING GUIDE

Advertising, quite simply, is news. News about products and services. When that news is about a product you're interested in buying, it's usually good news, too. It gives you an opportunity to learn more about the product.

To compare features and prices. To decide which is the best value for you. It is, indeed, a very convenient buying guide.

To be sure, the purpose of advertising is to interest you in goods and services. To sell them to you if possible. But the ultimate decision to buy is yours to make. And you make it, as a rule, not after reading one ad, but after reading a number of ads run by different manufacturers or different shops.

That's one of the virtues of our competitive economy. Lots of ads. Providing you with a lot of information to help you make the best possible buying decision.

Repatriation Of Arab Refugees Held Up By Three Little Words

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A dispute over three little words—State of Israel—is blocking the repatriation of up to 200,000 Arab refugees who fled across the Jordan River during and after the Arab-Israeli war. With only 13 days to go, no applications have been filled out for the refugees to return to the west bank of the Jordan, which Israel occupied in the June war. The Jordanian government has been urging the refugees to go home but it is not yet known how many want to. The Israelis announced that refugees could begin returning Aug. 10, provided their applications were approved after security and health screening. Israeli authorities supplied 7,000 printed application forms to Roland Troyer, a representative of the International Red Cross committee in Jordan. The Jordanian authorities refused to accept the forms because they were headed in English "State of Israel-Ministry of the Interior." The Jordanians considered this an attempt to squeeze out recognition of Israel as a nation, something the Arab countries have refused to do since the Jewish state was established in 1948.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. One club. This is in line with the general theory that it is better to open with a club when you have biddable four-card suits in spades and clubs. By starting with a club, it becomes possible to bid a spade over a diamond or heart response and thus keep the bidding at a low level. At the same time you identify the four-card spade length. These advantages are not obtained when you open with a spade.

2. One spade. From the standpoint of high cards the hearts are obviously better, but even so, you should follow the general principle of bidding length before strength and open one spade.

In general, the goal of a longest trump suit. The quantity of trumps in the combined hands is more important than their quality. Thus, if partner has three spades and three hearts, even though they are all low cards, spades are much more desirable as trumps than hearts.

3. One heart. The plan is to jump to two notrump over the expected spade response. If the opening bid were a club and partner responded with a spade, a jump to two notrump would result in suppressing the hearts, while a rebid of two hearts might cause partner to think that the clubs were longer than the hearts. Granted that opening with a heart may result in never mentioning the clubs, this is not much of a loss, because minor suit game contracts are comparatively rare.

4. Two notrump. This shows 22 to 24 points, balanced distribution and strength in all suits. Since an opening two notrump bid is so highly descriptive, it is preferable to an opening suit bid, which is always ambiguous and subject to a wide range in both high cards and distribution. Given a choice, it is far better to select a bid that has an exact meaning than one that can mean almost anything.

5. Two spades. Seldom can a forcing two bid be made in a four-card suit, but it is clearly best to do so with this hand. The only other bid worth considering is three notrump, but this would violate the rule that an opening three notrump bid shows 25 to 27 points. Here there are 29 points, and a three notrump opening might result in losing a slam if partner passed with four or more points.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Planetary influence on Saturday will be most auspicious for any work of an initiative character, for unusual enterprises and for concluding pending projects or business negotiations. Financial deals, if sound and conservative, should also work out well.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, where job and monetary progress is concerned, the next five months may prove rather negative. Do not become discouraged, however. Late December will bring some pleasant surprises along these lines, and the good period you will enter on the 21st of that month will last until mid-February. Next good financial cycle: The entire month of June. Do avoid extravagance and/or speculation between now and December 20th, however—especially in November.

Your best periods for occupational advancement will mostly parallel the aforementioned good monetary cycles, but you will have additional stellar blessing along this line during the last two weeks in April, when you may receive gratifying recognition for some outstanding accomplishment. Those in business can successfully conclude important transactions in late December and mid-May.

Generous planetary influences will govern social and family interests during most of the year ahead, but do try to avoid unnecessary clashes in close circles in early March and early June. A determination to curb your innate tendency to be over-exacting with intimates will be the best preventative. Best periods for romance: Late December (an all-around good period), next April and May; for travel, early February and the period between May 15th and September of next year. A child born on this day will be endowed with a true mind and an unusual array of talents, but will be strongly opinionated.

5. In Memoriam

ROUNTREE — In loving memory of a dear father Bert Rountree, who passed away July 23, 1967.

He had a cheery smile, a pleasant way,
A helping hand to all he knew;
He was so kind, so generous and true;
On earth he nobly did his best.
Grant him, Jesus, heavenly rest.
— Sadly missed by Thelma and Rhoda. 302

6. Card of Thanks

WE WOULD LIKE TO THANK everyone for the beautiful floral offerings and cards given in our recent bereavement of our dear father Bert J. Rountree. Special thanks to Dr. A. McIntosh, Dr. J. Probe Into UFOs Reveals Nothing

LONDON (AP)—Reports of flying saucers over wide areas of Europe have been investigated by the British government, but "nothing of defence interest has been found." Parliament was told this week. Unidentified flying objects looking like fireballs were reported seen in several European countries last week.

Roblin Might Join Candidates In Race For Tory Leadership

DUFF ROBLIN ... may run

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba said Thursday in Toronto he will state his intentions next week about seeking the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party. "I hope that next week I will be able to make some statement on this matter," he said at a press conference at Toronto International Airport.

H. Rap Brown, militant Negro leader, said Thursday in Washington the rioting in U.S. cities is caused by conditions for which President Johnson can be held responsible. Brown, director of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said "Lyndon Baines Johnson started the rebellion because he doesn't address himself to the conditions that cause them."

Gary Paul, 32, of Dawson Creek, pleaded guilty Thursday to charges of possession of an offensive weapon and of pointing a firearm. Magistrate R. S. Lawrence remanded Paul to next Tuesday pending a presentence report. Paul was arrested Sunday after holding police at bay for three hours outside a Dawson Creek motel. He had threatened to shoot his wife and kill himself.

been extinguished by fishermen from other boats. The spokesman said no foul play is suspected and there was no explosion. The victim was sleeping when fire broke out. Prince Rupert coroner Earl Gordon has ordered an inquiry.

Steven Vanderleek, 23, a patient at Riverview Mental Hospital, New Westminster, died Wednesday from injuries received Tuesday when he was hit by a car near the hospital.

In New Westminster, Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, told a meeting that unionists should take a more active role in municipal politics.

Mildred Valley Thornton, 77, who devoted her life to preserving Indian culture in oil paintings, died Thursday in Vancouver General Hospital. She had a collection of more than 300 paintings of famous Indian personalities.

Senator Wallace McCutcheon, one of eight declared candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, says in Toronto the party should take a "right-of-center stand." He told about 400 Toronto Conservatives Thursday night that in recent years the line between Liberals and Conservatives had become "very blurred" with both parties attempting to "out-flank" the NDP.

James Charles Duncan, 10, of Cawston, drowned Tuesday in the Similkameen River near Penticton. RCMP at Keremeos said Thursday the boy went swimming with his mother and three sisters and got into trouble in deep, fast-running water. Police said the boy was a non-swimmer.

Through death duties, the British treasury has taken a huge share of the Canadian-born widow of movie producer Sir Alexander Korda. The will of the former Alexandra Irene Boyeun of Port William, Ont., published today in London, estimated her fortune at $1,175,000. This was cut to $387,000 by British death duties.

Canada is standing still in world trade at the worst possible time and this will be the epitaph of the Pearson government," Davie Fulton said Thursday.

A British soldier today machine-gunned to death three Arab terrorist suspects in Aden's Crater Town as they scrambled into a mosque about 200 yards from him. Maj. Ian MacKay of the 1st Battalion of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders said the soldier, who was on a rooftop looking through binoculars, saw the three Arabs rush into the mosque within minutes of a grenade attack on British soldiers in a nearby street.

The Queen gave formal consent today for her divorced cousin Lord Harewood to marry Australian divorcee Patricia Tuckwell, mother of his fourth son. The Queen told a meeting of the Privy Council that she would permit the 43-year-old earl, 18th in line to the Throne, to remarry.

George Hees was the first-place choice for Conservative leader in a write-in ballot conducted by the Conservative association in the Quebec federal riding of Brome-Missisquoi. Of 929 who voted, 244 favored Mr. Hees. Howard Graffey, the riding's MP, was second with 187 followed by Davie Fulton with 172. Current leader John Diefenbaker was next with 75.

day in Goderich, Ont. "All around us, in Europe, in Central and South America, in the Pacific — the world of trade is changing," the Conservative MP for Kamloops said. "Yet the basic patterns of Canadian trade have not changed in the quarter-century since the Second World War."

Prohibition In Movies Virtually Ends In Quebec

By DAVE BAZAY

QUEBEC (CP) — Prohibition of sorts has just about had it in Quebec's movie industry.

The province's new Cinema Act ends a ban on drive-in theatres, prohibited in 1947 by the Union Nationale government "to protect the morals of the population."

Also ended by the act is the ban on attendance of children. For years children, under 16 were not allowed in movie houses.

The act was approved by the legislative assembly last week, and is expected to move through the legislative council, Quebec's upper house, and to be sanctioned this week.

Despite the bill, some critics fear the prudery of the past may creep back into censorship, perhaps more liberal in Quebec than anywhere in Canada.

Fears are based on comments of Provincial Secretary Yves Gabias, whose department administers censorship. He has spoken out for stricter censorship.

Drive-ins were prohibited under the late premier Maurice Duplessis. Drive-ins did not even exist here at that time, but Mr. Duplessis said he was pleased to sponsor their prohibition "to protect the morals of the population."

"Times have changed," says Mr. Gabias, sponsor of the Cinema Act.

The new act sets up four classes of films viewers may attend: family films for all; adult films for those at least 18; child films for those under 14; and special films for special groups such as students or non-commercial film clubs.

Rigid restrictions on attendance of children arose mostly from a tragedy, but partly from prudery.

At Montreal Jan. 9, 1927, fire broke out in the Laurier Place Theatre, killing 78 children watching a comedy called Get 'Em Young.

The victims, mostly boys between four and 16, were stricken by panic in their dime seats in the theatre's balcony. Most died of asphyxiation.

The day after the fire the censor of the period, Marquis de Roussy de Salles, told a newspaper reporter:

"Not one picture out of 200 is fit for children to see. No boy or girl should trouble their heads about pictures. Their themes are too suggestive."

BAR MODIFIED

The restriction on children under 16 was modified in 1961 to permit children between 10 and 16 to attend specially approved movie houses for special afternoon showings.

Censorship had its darkest days between 1912 and 1963 when great chunks of film were scissored away by censors.

Subjects such as religious controversy were taboo. The film Martin Luther was banned in the late 1950s because the Roman Catholic Church considered him a heretic.

In 1963 an inquiry committee, including a priest, reported that Quebec should respect the artistic integrity of films.

The practice of cutting by the censor was ended with the 1963 appointment as chief censor of Andre Guerin, 39, a Harvard man who had worked with the National Film Board.

Mr. Guerin, authorized by orders-in-council of the former Liberal government, put the onus on film cutting on distributors and producers.

If Quebec's censors reject the film, the distributors, with permission of the producers, must make modifications. Or a film might be approved on appeal without modification.

Movie World Eyes Hopefully Britain's Successful Eady Plan

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—The British film industry is thriving as never before, and a major reason for the prosperity is the government's Eady Plan.

The English have had such success with the plan that film industries of other countries are eyeing it as a solution to their ills. The long-ailing German industry is seeking aid through subsidy, and there is even talk of it in Hollywood.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, has admitted that the suggestion of a government or non-government subsidy is being studied.

The Eady Plan was instituted in the late 1940s, when war-battered Britain tightened up its imports to save precious pounds. The government levied a 75 per cent tax on U.S. films, causing American companies to stop sending their product. Deprived of films, theatres closed and the entire English film business began sinking.

Harold Wilson, then president of the Board of Trade, instructed the board's permanent secretary, Sir Wilford Eady, to devise a solution.

CONTRIBUTE TO FUND

It was this: Virtually every theatre ticket sold in the United Kingdom would include a levy amounting to less than a penny. This money would go into a fund which would repay producers who made "British quota films." To qualify under the quota, a picture would need to pay between 75 to 80 per cent of its labor costs to British subjects or those living in British countries.

It has proven a boon to British film makers and a thorn in the side of Hollywood labor leaders who claim the Eady Plan encourages "runaway" production.

Such epithets as "runaway" can't stop the continuing trend of American companies seeking the advantages of the Eady Plan.

One of the provisions of the Eady Plan is that only two of a film's key personnel may be non-British. Often one star and the director will be American. But there is a growing colony of American producers who have become English residents to take advantage of the Eady Plan.

One of these is Walter Shenson who struck a bonanza with the Beatles pictures, which made him a millionaire.

The producer conceded there is criticism that the Eady Plan helps such hits as the James Bond and Beatles films, which don't really need it. There are also rumblings from English that the Americans have taken over the film industry here.

"But the fact remains that the system has developed British talent so that the industry here is more vigorous than any in the world," Shenson concluded.

GRACE BETTER

Princess Grace of Monaco turns to smile at hospital staff after leaving the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal. The princess, who was admit-

Makeup 'Insecure'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cary Grant says makeup is a sign of insecurity.

"Very few women live the truth," says the 62-year-old actor who has charmed women on and off the screen for two generations. "They put on wigs, false eyelashes, brassieres."

Grant, who visited Vancouver en route home to Beverly Hills, Calif., after attending the Calgary Stampede, is known for objecting to his leading ladies wearing makeup.

About the only actresses who get away with wearing makeup are those who are badly wanted for a Cary Grant film.

The actor says he hasn't worn makeup for years and says actors who do are also insecure.

"On the giant screen they look ridiculous with that pink stuff all over their faces," he said.

"See them at a party moving their heads like this," he added, wagging the famous cleft chin up and down. "You can't focus on them. They don't really want to be seen. On screen it's even worse. You can't focus on them at all."

Grant said he was in a hurry to get home, not because he had any work to do, but because he was anxious to see 17-month-old Jennifer, his only child, and wife Dyan.

It's A Pity Those Eggheads Were Slow On Horror Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Only in recent times have the intellectual critics of films discovered the horror movie, and it's a pity.

As a longtime fan of movies, I am always alarmed when the highbrow essayists embrace a segment of film history. I enjoyed Chaplin immensely until thinkers waxed eloquent on the profundity of his comedy. Likewise I was an enthusiast for the gaudy musicals of the 1930s until I learned from the priests and priestesses of current taste that such films were camp, an expression that seems out of date after a year or two of currency. And so it was with trepidation that I approached a new book by Carlos Clarens called An Illustrated History of the Horror Film.

The volume turned out to be not as illustrated as it is billed—only three inserted sections of photographs. And there are undertones of over-intellectualizing for what was intended to be popular entertainment.

Except for such over-analysis, An Illustrated History of the thorough and thought-provoking Horror Film is an amazing treatise.

QUITS NETWORK
News correspondent Ned Calmer has left CBS to devote himself to creative writing.

Fred Astair Thankful Now

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Thank heaven," said ageless Fred Astaire, "I don't have any of those romantic numbers to do."

"I've done so many of them and they're terribly hard work." The celebrated dancer was slumped in a chair in his dressing room at Warner Brothers. He was awaiting a call to the studio's outdoor set, where he was to appear in a brief long-shot for Finian's Rainbow.

Astaire is a sensitive man and the interviewer learns to skirt certain areas. For instance, he is bored by references to his age, which happens to be 67. He is oblivious to the passage of time and couldn't tell you that it has been 11 years since he filmed his last screen musical, Silk Stockings.

DOES STRAIGHT ROLES
He has done three straight roles, in On the Beach, Notorious Landlady, The Pleasure of His Company.

Finian's Rainbow is the first musical in which he does not dance with a glamorous partner.

"It's such a relief," he said. "Those romantic dances take so long to rehearse and it's murder trying to devise new ideas."

"This role I'm playing—Finian—is a real character, a salty old Irishman. All of the dances come out of the character and the situations; I don't have any real solos as such. And I like it that way."

Astaire is once again associated with Hermes Pan, with whom he has collaborated on dances since the RKO years with Ginger Rogers. As for getting back in form, Astaire remarked that it is still no problem.

DUCKS CALISTHENICS

"I never work out between jobs; calisthenics are a bore," he commented. "When I know I am going back to work, I start getting in condition a couple of weeks beforehand."

"No exercises, just dancing. So far I've never had any problems."

He is contemplating another television special for early next year. In recent years he brought forth three much-honored Evenings with Fred Astaire, and he retains ownership of the films.

"One of the networks wanted to put them on during the summer," he said. "I wouldn't go for it; they're not 'summer reruns'."

"They'll either be put on during prime time of the regular season or not at all."

MOVIE highlights

Comedy, romance and cruel drama are among the movie topics coming to Kelowna next week.

At the Paramount Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 31, Aug. 1 and 2, Night of the Generals, will be shown at 7 and 9:15 p.m.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 3 to 5, Doctor You've Got to Be Kidding, will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. with Invitation to Paradise as an added attraction.

A special feature will be shown at the Saturday matinee, Aug. 5, but the title is to be released later.

At the Drive-in Theatre, the academy award winning picture Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow will be seen Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, July 29, 31 and Aug. 1.

The film details for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday were not released at press time.

The Night of the Generals stars Peter O'Toole, Omar Sharif, Tom Courtenay, Joanna Pettet and others. It is a highly dramatic and suspenseful picture laid in war-ravaged Europe and concerns the upper levels of the German officer corps. O'Toole plays a monomaniacal, cold-blooded martinet, a spit and polish Nazi general. Sharif plays a German Army intelligence officer hunting a vicious killer. Romance is provided by Courtenay, a German lance corporal, in love with a general's daughter, played by Miss Pettet.

Doctor, You've Got to Be Kidding stars Sandra Dee, George Hamilton, Celeste Holm and others in a comedy about an unwed mother-to-be. It is the story of a girl who turns four bachelors into would-be fathers. The picture has four new songs.

Sandra Dee is the pert heroine whose ambitious mother achieve fame in show business via the night club route, but who prefers her job as secretary to handsome young business tycoon George Hamilton. That is, until the latter voices his contempt for her singing and dancing talent, at which point she decides she'll show him!

Show him she does, with the help of her next-door neighbor, Bill Bixby, musician Dick Kallman and Dwayne Hickman, a shoe salesman with dreams of becoming an actor. But at a crucial point, Sandra's plans backfire and in the picture's hilarious climax, boss Hamilton and her other three swains stage a rousing race to shift from bachelors to bridegrooms—with the stork as Best Man.

Miss Dee has several sparkling night club interludes in which she sings "I Haven't Got Anything Better To Do" and "Walk Tall Like a Man" and dances to "Little Girl," performed by The Wild Affair. Another musical highlight is "Talkin' Law," sung by folk singer Rica Owen Moore in a swinging coffee house sequence replete with Watusi-Frug-Swim-Mashed Potato-Monkey dancers.

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow presents three views of Italian society and three separate views of Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni.

Filmed on location in Rome, Naples and Milan, the episodes—each starring Loren and Mastroianni—run the social scale from lower to middle to upper class... each bound together by universal qualities of humor, humanity and compassion. The "Adelina" episode, based of a widely publicized newspaper account of a decade ago, concerns a woman charged with black-marketing American cigarettes. Her celebrated struggle with the law excited the imagination of the entire world when it learned that she was evading prison by perennial pregnancy!

According to the Italian Penal Code, no pregnant woman can be imprisoned until six months after her child is born. Encouraged by this legal loophole, she and her husband produce a brood of seven children in five years.

In the "Mara" episode, Miss Loren plays a call girl who lives in a terrace apartment overlooking Rome's Piazza Navona. Mastroianni, this time, appears as a Bolognese business man who is in the Eternal City for the eternal mixture of business and pleasure.

Director Huston Makes A First

LEENAUN, Ireland (AP) — Movie-maker John Huston plans to star his 16-year-old daughter Anjelica in a film.

By directing his daughter in a movie, Huston should become the first major film-maker to direct his father, himself and his child in a feature picture.

He directed his father, the late Walter Huston, in Treasure of the Sierra Madre. He directed himself in The Bible.

He said he will star Anjelica in an original screen play by Dale Wasserman called A Wak with Love and Death.

CHANGE OF NAME

Indian censors changed the name of the movie How To Murder Your Wife to How to Conquer Your Wife while pruning all traces of sex and violence.

so, if you ever found while serving on the said committee you found yourself frustrated, fretting or fearful of failing to fulfill your role. . . . This is about a one-woman do-it-yourself committee effort.

The story opens last Sunday afternoon when my phone rang. The ardent voice of a young woman introduced herself, her idea, and stated I was one of a number she had chatted with that hot afternoon to pursue ways and means of staging as soon as possible a unique presentation. It seems, as she has been vitally keen about creative movement and modern dance she had enrolled as a member of the Okanagan Summer School of the Arts in Penticton from July 10-29. While there from Kelowna, where she is really not too long standing a citizen, she was inspired by the creative dance division and the instruction and demonstrations given by Gertrude and Magda Hanova and their little company of three young women creative interpreters. These two Czechoslovakians have a studio of dance in Vancouver where they teach Yoga and exercises for both individual and group self expression. A background of study and research as well as eventual performance and lecturing obtains from their experience in India, England and Central Europe. TV, radio and stage was their medium. . . . Having been turned on by her several encounters with their unique methods, my telephone inquirer dared to suggest the possibility of having the Kelowna public provided with the chance to experience The Hanova Modern Dance Group.

That's not all. "Could they be sponsored or presented no later than the day or so following their conclusion at the Summer School?" That would be July 29! Challenged by this I made a few trembling suggestions. From there Anne Briggs, the gal on the phone, said she would add these to her collection, said thanks and she'd let me know how she made out. . . . Resourceful must be her middle name. Wednesday, she saw me to say the group will appear as a special Centennial Fine Arts Event Monday evening, July 31. The provision of auditorium from St. David's Church at Pandosy and Sutherland overcame bottlenecks in the obtainable performing area. A silver collection meant open attendance for all. The time for the revelation's beginning will be 8 p.m. "Wait, there's more good news." Zelko Kujundzic studio on Richter Street would be the scene of an open public reception for the eminent group from 8-10 p.m. this Sunday evening.

Talk about a happening! You might call the lady organizer's story "A Majority of One," even if she insists she owes so much to the people she touched with her appeal. As a labor of love, her success within three days with TV, Radio and Newspaper media, the Centennial heads, and the others she credits, can only be crowned by public interest. I hope I'll see you there Monday at St. David's Hall at 8 p.m! . . . And, oh yes! She may be the cause of the establishment of a work shop of creative movement involving this group in Kelowna at a future date.

CJOV-FM HIGHLIGHTS

Tonight's Symphony Hall features at 9, pianist Malcuzyński with Chopin Waltzes. The Symphony program tomorrow evening starts at 7 p.m. for one hour with Stravinsky's Fairy's Kiss. He conducts the Columbia Symphony for this work. Sunday night Richard Burton will be heard in Dr. Faustus. The play as performed at the Oxford University Theatre will be a feature of the music and spoken word program, Strings and Things, from 8 to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Monday's Symphony will start at 8:55 p.m. The unorthodox time is to accommodate Bruckner's 4th Symphony of 65 minutes. Bruno Walter conducts this Columbia Symphony performance. Preceding the symphony program on Classics for Monday Eve at 8:10 p.m., the Song of Norway, the great Edward Grieg operetta, is scheduled.

Tuesday the first BC Lions football broadcast from Calgary is at 8 p.m. . . . Gilbert & Sullivan's Iolanthe replaces Wednesday evening's 9 p.m. regular Symphony. The G & S offering is monthly, each first Wednesday. Jascha Heifetz is feature guest violinist Thursday at 9 p.m. with Walton's Violin Concerto. The Boston Pops are featured at FM Theatre time 10:15 to 11 p.m. Thursday. . . . PS: Listen to the Lady of the Lake interviews nightly at 8:45, Monday to Friday.

Producer Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film producer David Weshart, 52, died Friday of a stroke. He had produced such movies as Rebel Without a Cause, Rio Conchos and Valley of the Dolls. Weshart produced more than 35 films in his career, including Love Me Tender with Elvis Presley, April Love with Pat Boone, and Them, a science fiction movie.
